

CHAPTER 4AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019*Introduction

4.1 Since June 2019, Hong Kong has faced its most challenging public order situation in a generation. This Study aims to enable the IPCC to understand this situation, so that it may better perform its statutory duties under section 8 of the IPCC Ordinance.

4.2 A good starting point is the description of the situation from June to October 2019, made by the Court of Appeal (CA) in its Judgment handed down on 9 April 2020 on the Judicial Review brought by 26 current Members of the Legislative Council (LegCo) and one former Member.¹ The description, based on evidence placed before the CA and unchallenged by the Applicants in the Judicial Review, is as follows:

“1. Since June 2019, Hong Kong has experienced serious social unrests and public disorders marked by protests, escalating violence, vandalisms and arsons across the territory. It is a dire situation that has not been seen in the last 50 years.

2. The increasing violence has resulted in widespread property damage, assaults on persons, serious damage and interruptions to major public transport facilities and highways. The violence and damage are mostly caused by protestors wearing masks and dressed in black outfits. At the same time, it is a common phenomenon that many other protestors participating in public assemblies and processions who are not involved in violence are also wearing masks and dressed in black outfits.

14. Most pertinently, the uncontested evidence shows that the outbreaks of violence are escalated by the more radical and violent protestors employing the “black-bloc” tactics² to avoid identification and arrests, who are to a certain extent supported or at least condoned (and hence emboldened) by protestors who participate in initially peaceful public assemblies or processions. Such tactics is facilitated in light of the following³:

¹ CACV 541, 542, 583/2019. Footnotes 2 to 7 are reproduced from the Judgment of the Court of Appeal handed down on 9 April 2020.

² “Black-bloc” tactics is where the protestors would often appear in groups and wear black clothing with little or not distinguishable feature, and cover the whole or a substantial part of their faces with sunglasses, goggles, masks, or respirators etc. See the Affirmation of Cheung Tin Lok at [8] - [9].

- (1) Public order events are highly fluid in nature. A public meeting or procession that is initially lawful and peaceful can quickly turn into an unauthorized or unlawful assembly.*
- (2) The most violent and radical protestors are those who have their faces covered and therefore their identities concealed. They are also often equipped with gas masks and refuse to disperse even when the police deploy tear gas.*
- (3) These radical and violent protestors with their faces covered often mix themselves into a larger group of protestors (taking part in a largely peaceful public meeting or procession) who are also wearing masks. This has rendered identification most difficult when the violent protestors with their faces concealed can easily slip away amidst the chaos they have aroused.*
- (4) The more radical and violent protestors are often supported by many less violent protestors (also wearing facial covers to avoid recognition) by, for example, the provision of resources (such as food and water), tools and even weapons, as well as free rides when the police are taking actions of dispersal and arrests.*
- (5) Moreover, the more radical and violent protestors committing criminal conducts are encouraged by and find it essential to regard that they have the support or back-up of those peaceful protestors who themselves are also wearing face covering masks and present at the public assemblies or processions.*
- (6) In this respect, as the expert evidence shows⁴, mask functions as a facilitator of anonymity. When anonymity joins with group function, participants' responsibilities become easily diffused or shared. Individuals tend to feel they are being supported by a lot of people. This is an emboldenment effect. If the dominant group value or purpose in the situation is anti-social, the individual will conform to that and more likely to act antisocially.⁵*

³ See, in particular, the Affirmation of Cheung Tin Lok at [20] - [24] and [31].

⁴ See the Affidavit of Dr Tsui, Pui Wan Ephraem at [17].

15. Large scale incidents of breach of peace in Hong Kong ensued. In blatant defiance of the law, the more radical and violent protestors have perpetrated widespread criminal conducts ranging from unlawful assembly to serious property damage, assault on persons, arsons and use of lethal weapons.

16. *The unchallenged evidence shows that from 9 June to 4 October 2019, violent and radical protestors had:*⁶

- (1) forcefully and repeatedly charged police cordon lines with the use of weapons whilst protected by body armour, and blocked roads and tunnels (including main thoroughfares) with various objects which had resulted in persons trapped with or in their vehicles and, on some occasions, attacked drivers who voiced displeasure at such blockages;
- (2) vandalised and wrecked serious damage to public facilities (such as pavements, roadside fences and barriers, signages, dust bins, lamp posts, traffic lights, street lights and CCTV cameras, etc) and Government buildings (such as the Legislative Council Complex, Police Headquarters, Cheung Sha Wan Government Offices, etc), set fire by burning public properties outside or at police stations and on the streets in multiple districts, and hurled inflammable liquid bombs at police vehicles, police stations and even police officers and at and within the MTR stations;
- (3) damaged private shopping malls, shops and restaurants, etc; there were also reports of looting and theft in some of the shops that were damaged;
- (4) damaged residential quarters and harassed residents of the same;
- (5) crippled the operations of critical transport infrastructure including the Hong Kong International Airport, a large number of the MTR stations and tracks (notwithstanding and in breach of relevant injunctive orders in place, and at the same time causing massive, serious and repeated destruction of facilities in the MTR stations resulting in the closure of multiple MTR stations due to safety concerns and the need for urgent repair as well as taking

⁶ Moreover: (a) the use of inflammable liquid bombs has become more frequent and extensive, and even more so since late September 2019. On 29 September and 1 October 2019, the number of inflammable liquid bombs hurled by the protestors were respectively around 100 and over 100; (b) on 1 October 2019, a police officer was injured by protestors throwing corrosive liquid at him, causing a third degree burn; (c) on the same date, some police officers were seen viciously attacked by large groups of protestors by a range of objects and lethal weapons, and a few of them whose lives were under imminent threat had to defend themselves with firearms; (d) as at 4 October 2019, a total of 2 135 individuals have been arrested for taking part in public order events of an unlawful or criminal nature, or being involved in other unlawful or criminal activities. See the unchallenged evidence in the Affirmation of Cheung Tin Lok at [4] - [6], and the Affidavit of Chui Shih Yen, Joceline at [26] - [28].

- deliberate acts to stop or delay MTR trains from operating during morning rush), and the Cross-Harbour Tunnel, etc;*
- (6) harassed and attacked ordinary citizens and police officers holding different political views by a range of objects and lethal weapons, such as high-powered laser pointers (which were sometimes shone directly into the eyes of the victim from a short distance), sling shots and catapults to launch a variety of projectiles, sharp or sharpened objects (including box cutters and sharpened bamboo poles), bricks and inflammable liquid bombs etc, causing numerous injuries of various degree; and
 - (7) stopped vehicles and threatened drivers with damage to their vehicles to force them to yield up their mobile telephones for examination or to pay the protestors a sum of money.

17. The evidence therefore has shown that by the beginning of October 2019, the above acts of radical and violent protesters had seriously breached public peace, and posed a grave and genuine danger to the police and other members of the public. Normal functions of the Hong Kong community had been severely disrupted. More importantly, there were signs of and even declared intent by violent protestors to procure further escalation in the degree of violence and vandalism in unlawful assemblies which might as a result turn into riots, pushing Hong Kong to a most perilous situation.⁷

4.3 This indeed was the situation the community suffered during the protests. However, the protests, the violence and the vandalism did not stop with October 2019. They continued with ferocity, easing off only when the community was stricken by COVID-19, and even then, sporadic violent protests still break out in the streets. Although there is no published estimate of the overall costs of the direct and indirect destruction wrought by the protests, some information offers an indication of the scope and scale of the damage caused directly or indirectly by the protests to private property, Government and public property, traffic infrastructure, MTR network, injury to civilians, the economy at large and the general crime situation during the protests in Hong Kong. A list of damage and impact available to the IPCC from the public and the Police is at Annex 1.

4.4 Such costs are significant with lasting consequences to the economy. Other less visible, intangible losses would be the departure of corporations from our city and the loss of companies intending to set up offices here. In sum, the detriment to our economy and to our

Events Giving Rise to the Public Order Events (POEs)

4.5 The event which triggered the incidents over the past months was the Fugitive Offenders Bill. The Fugitive Offenders Bill was proposed by the Government in February 2019 for the surrender arrangement of fugitives between the Mainland, Taiwan, Macau and the HKSAR. Although the Government did make various amendments to the Fugitive Offenders Bill to allay the concern of different sectors, there remained the fear among some that the Fugitive Offenders Bill might be used to transfer political dissidents to the Mainland. This gave rise to POEs, initially peaceful, against the Fugitive Offenders Bill. In addition to processions by certain members of the legal profession, the Civil Human Rights Front (CHRF) launched public processions on two Sundays, 31 March⁸ and 28 April 2019⁹ respectively. Both events were peaceful with estimated 12 000 and 130 000 participants, while the Police estimated 5 200 and 22 800 at the peak. These would pale into insignificance against those in the months to follow.

4.6 After the first reading of the Fugitive Offenders Bill, there was such serious division of views within LegCo and prolonged filibustering in debates that it was impossible ever to set up a Bills Committee despite four meetings between mid-April and mid-May 2019.¹⁰ As a result, the Secretary for Security (S for S) announced on 20 May 2019 the Government's decision to take the Fugitive Offenders Bill directly to the Plenary Council Meeting on 12 June 2019 for a Second Reading debate, bypassing the Bills Committee stage.¹¹ Against the background of this extraordinary arrangement, CHRF organised a third procession in protest on the afternoon of Sunday 9 June 2019. This would start from Victoria Park and proceed to Central Government Complex (CGC) for a public meeting there that evening. The Police issued a Letter of No Objection (LoNO) for both the public procession and the public meeting on 9 June 2019 up to 23:59. The first clashes between the Police and some violent protesters took place that evening after the procession of 9 June 2019. Meanwhile, CHRF also called upon protesters to besiege

(Image source: LIHKG)

4.7 The introduction of the Fugitive Offenders Bill was a decision on the part of the Government. Some in LegCo and in the community saw political implications and raised objection. It is open to the community to protest against it peacefully: it is a right protected by law.

The Role of the Police

4.8 The responsibility of the Police is for law enforcement, quite separate from any political considerations that may be attached to the Fugitive Offenders Bill. The role, and therefore the actions, of the Police in this instance are the same as for any other disturbance of law and order requiring their presence. The IPCC is well aware and has been reminded by the Commissioner of Police (Commissioner) that the Police plays no part in politics. This is evidenced by the statement of the Deputy Commissioner of Police, Management at the United Nations (UN) Commission of Human Rights:

“These violent criminals preached to their followers that the end justifies the means; that breaking the law to achieve their goals was a noble cause. Police officers are not there to judge whether their proclaimed cause is a just one, or if it even makes sense. We don't have to. We are police officers. Our one and only mission is to find out whether anyone has committed a crime. If someone breaks the law, it is our lawful duty to stop him and arrest him. Whether a cause is altruistic or in fact self-serving is completely irrelevant to us. The law demands that we arrest them. The basic premise of the rule of law is that. No one is above the law. This is why I and the other 30 000 members of the Hong Kong Police have all taken the solemn oath to serve as police officers, without fear of or favour to any person and with malice or ill-will towards none. This is the truth about Hong Kong.¹²

4.9 The Police performs duties prescribed by the Police Force Ordinance (PFO). In relation to protests, the Police has a central role in law enforcement under the Public Order Ordinance (POO). In addition, the Police has the duty to arrest persons who, in the course of protests, have committed offences under the laws of the HKSAR and give assistance to the Department of Justice in bringing offenders to trial before the Courts of the HKSAR.

The Scope of this Chapter

4.10 While peaceful protest against Government policy and actions is protected by law, the violence the community has seen in the streets of Hong Kong is not lawful behaviour. The Police, as the law enforcement agent designated to maintain law and order in Hong Kong, has to discharge its police duty in law. In this connection, many complaints have been made against the actions of police officers. These have to be seen with the perspective and against the backdrop of the events of the past months, which have necessitated the Police exercising the powers conferred by law.

4.11 On the basis of the information available to the IPCC, this Chapter will look at the following facets, first in the form of a statistical overview and then, as a monthly analysis:

- (a) The events surrounding the Fugitive Offenders Bill that gave rise to the POEs;
- (b) Escalation of the POEs since 9 June 2019 with the progress of time (month by month), in terms of:
 - (i) The frequency of the POEs,
 - (ii) The scale of the POEs, and
 - (iii) The general level of violence;
- (c) Major protests and events widely covered by the media and circulated on the internet

¹² Statement by Deputy Commissioner of Police, Mr. Oscar Kwok, to the UN Human Rights Commission, 9 March 2020.

that propelled the unrest;

- (d) The violent acts of the protesters, including vandalising shopping malls, MTR station facilities, setting on fire shops and branches of Mainland companies and banks, attacking police officers, vigilantism on people with opposing views;
- (e) The weapons and tactics of the violent protesters;
- (f) Police use of force in response to the acts of the violent protesters; and
- (g) The messages and propaganda on the internet that continued to fuel the violent protests:
 - (i) Appealing and mobilising people to take part in protests and to resort to violence;
 - (ii) Sharing information to act in concert to assist the violent protesters clashes with the Police;
 - (iii) Teaching people to make weapons, such as petrol bombs;
 - (iv) Disseminating untrue or unverified information;
 - (v) Attacking Government Offices;
 - (vi) Vandalising pro-Government corporations;
 - (vii) Tracking the movements of police officers on duty;
 - (viii) Doxxing police officers and their family members; and
 - (ix) Inciting hatred against the Police.

POEs from June 2019 to February 2020: A Statistical Overview

4.12 The public of Hong Kong has the freedom of public assembly subject to regulation under the POO. Sections 7 to 9 and 13 to 14 of the POO require organisers to notify the Commissioner of intended public meetings and processions, and the Police is obliged to issue a LoNO with or without conditions, unless the Police for the reasons set out in the POO issues a Letter of Objection. The POO provides for appeal in the event of Police objection to an Appeal Board on Public Meetings and Processions of independent persons chaired by a retired Justice of the High Court of the HKSAR. An approved public meeting/ procession referred to in this Study would be a meeting/ procession with a LoNO. An unapproved public meeting/ procession would either be one not notified or one with Police objection either unappealed or upheld on appeal. Procedures for notification of public meeting/ procession are well known and the Police has a website catering to persons or organisations intending to organise public meetings/ procession.¹³

4.13 Between June 2019 and February 2020, there were 300 applications for LoNO, of which 252 were issued. 48 Letters of Objection with reasons were given, as Table 4-1 will show.

4.15 As of February 2020, the violent protests against the Fugitive Offenders Bill since June 2019 have led to 7 613 arrests. Police action in response to the violent protests have given rise to 542 Reportable Complaints (RCs) and 1 099 Notifiable Complaints (NCs), making a total of 1 641 complaints. The breakdown of these figures by month is given in Tables 4-2 and 4-3 below.

THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

Sunday 9 June 2019 – Clashes at the LegCo Complex after CHRF Procession

4.17 The night of 9 June 2019 saw the beginnings of violence in the protests. Prior to 9 June 2019, there were messages on the internet inciting people to throw water bottles, bricks, stones and even petrol bombs during the protest that day. Tutorials online gave guidance on making petrol bombs.¹⁴ CHRF, and two political groups, namely Hong Kong Independence Union and Studentlocalism, called for protesters to stay behind at the CGC area to rehearse laying siege to the LegCo Complex. These two groups were established among younger people for political reform after the “Occupy Movement (OCM)” in 2014.

Image 4-3: A propaganda on CHRF's Facebook promoting the public procession to be held on 9 June 2019
(Image source: Facebook)

4.18 The procession on 9 June 2019 was generally peaceful and orderly with 1.03 million people taking part according to CHRF, while the Police counted 240 000 at the peak. After the procession, hundreds of protesters remained outside the LegCo Complex while a few hundred gathered at Harcourt Road, outside Admiralty Centre. At 23:07, the Government issued a press release acknowledging the large turnout of the march and announcing the Second Reading debate on the Fugitive Offenders Bill to be held on 12 June 2019. This message changed the atmosphere outside the LegCo Complex.

4.19 Around midnight, hundreds of violent protesters charged on the Police cordon line at the designated demonstration area of the LegCo Complex. They threw iron rods, metal barriers, water bottles and other hard objects at the police officers. In response, the police officers used batons, oleoresin capsicum (OC) Foam (i.e. pepper spray) and pelargonic acid vanillylamide (PAVA)solution (i.e. pepper liquid) to hold back the violent protesters. Some of the protesters fled to Tim Mei Avenue, Lung Wui Road, Lung Wo Road and Gloucester Road, blocking those roads. Around 02:50, the Police concluded dispersal action with 358 protesters hemmed in outside old Wan Chai Police Station. They were allowed to leave after being searched and their personal particulars recorded by the Police.

(Image source: HK01)

4.20 The violence in the clashes on 9 June 2019 was of a much lower level than that in the clashes in subsequent protests. The gear worn or used by both the violent protesters and the police officers on 9 June 2019 was comparatively light. Only about half of the protesters had surgical masks and only a few were in black outfits with masks, goggles and helmets. The police officers at the cordon line were in standard uniform. Even the Special Tactical Contingent officers later deployed to the scene were not in full riot gear.

4.21 Chapter 7 contains a detailed study of the Incident on 9 June 2019.

Wednesday 12 June 2019 – Clashes near LegCo Complex

4.22 Calls for escalation of protest against the Fugitive Offenders Bill continued to circulate on the internet. On 10 June 2019, messages appeared on the internet calling for people to “picnic” at the Tamar Park and take part in a strike starting from 11 June 2019. CHRF also announced their plan to host public meetings against the Fugitive Offenders Bill¹⁵, starting from 10:00 of 12 June 2019 until the end of the Second Reading, which the LegCo President had scheduled to be held on 20 June 2019.¹⁶ There were also calls on the internet to escalate the

4.24 On the internet, protesters had given an ultimatum for the Government to withdraw the Fugitive Offenders Bill by 15:00; otherwise, protest action will be escalated. When the time reached 15:00, a few hundred protesters wearing helmets, masks, cling film and goggles began pushing the mills barriers¹⁸ at Police cordon lines outside CGC and throwing bricks, water bottles, umbrellas, helmets and other hard objects at the police officers holding these lines. The Police initially defended with batons, OC Foam, and PAVA solution, eventually in the face of the protesters' mounting violence, the Police fired tear gas and less-lethal projectiles (including rubber rounds, super sock rounds and react rounds) to disperse them. At 15:30, the Police declared the situation a riot. The turmoil continued until midnight. The Police had fired a total of 240 rounds of tear gas, 19 rubber rounds, three super sock rounds and 33 react rounds.

Protesters' Focus Evolved towards Allegations of Police Violence/ Brutality

4.26 After the event on 12 June 2019, the public / protesters' focus evolved. Public sentiment was directed not only towards the Government about the Fugitive Offenders Bill, but also towards the Police about alleged “police violence / brutality” on 12 June 2019. The next day, CHRF condemned the Police action on 12 June 2019 on its Facebook.¹⁹ On the same post, CHRF also announced that they had applied for LoNO to hold another procession 16 June

2019 and a public meeting outside the LegCo Complex on 17 June 2019 and called for a General Strike. On 14 June 2019, CHRF further appealed to the public to join the events, with slogans such as “Let us be united. Say NO to police violence and China Extradition”.²⁰ Information was also circulated on the internet, such as hand signals, for communicating among protesters.²¹ Clear and comprehensive hand signals were noted during subsequent events.²²

Saturday 15 June - Bill Suspension / A Protester Fell to His Death in Admiralty on 15 June

4.27 On 15 June 2019, the Government announced the suspension of the Fugitive Offenders Bill.²³ An hour and a half after the announcement, a protester in yellow raincoat climbed onto the podium of Pacific Place in Admiralty to hang a banner calling for complete withdrawal of the Fugitive Offenders Bill. Hours later, he climbed onto a scaffolding on the outer wall of Pacific Place. Before officers from Fire Services Department (FSD) could reach him, he fell to his death.²⁴ Very quickly, messages appeared on the internet holding the Government responsible for the death of a “烈士” (martyr).²⁵ His yellow raincoat soon became an icon for the subsequent protests.²⁶ Messages on the internet also called for people to go into the street and to join the procession to be launched by CHRF in memory of the deceased on the following day, 16 June 2019.²⁷

4.28 According to CHRF’s estimate, two million took part in the procession on 16 June 2019, while the Police counted 338 000 at the peak. The procession concluded peacefully at CGC. At the conclusion of the procession, CHRF commemorated the deceased protester, saying that “2 million and one” had taken part in the event.²⁸ The “Five Demands” first appeared for the first time in written form:²⁹

- complete withdrawal of the Fugitive Offenders Bill;
- accountability for Police decision to shoot on 12 June 2019;
- release of the arrested protesters and withdrawal of all charges;
- retraction of characterisation of the protest as “riot”;
- resignation of the Chief Executive.

Friday 21 June & Wednesday 26 June 2019 – Besieging of Police Headquarters

4.29 On 18 and 19 June 2019, the Chief Executive and the S for S respectively apologised to the public for deficiencies in handling the Fugitive Offenders Bill. Despite their apologies, the protests did not abate. On the nights of 21 and 26 June 2019, hundreds to thousands of protesters laid siege to PHQ after taking part in rallies in Admiralty and Central respectively on those two days. The Police did not take any dispersal action although the exterior of PHQ was defaced with slogans. CCTV cameras were disabled or smashed laser beams were shone on police officers seen from the street. However, the Police only stood guard inside PHQ, and allowed the protesters to disperse in their own time.³⁰

4.30 On 29 and 30 June, two females, both in their twenties, committed suicide by jumping off from buildings. In their suicide notes, they expressed their dissatisfaction with the Fugitive Offenders Bill and encouraged other protesters in their cause.³¹ Some messages memorialising their death subsequently appeared on the internet.³²

4.31 In June 2019, the Police used tear gas and other less-lethal weapons on 12 June 2019 and arrested a total of 73. At the time, the clashes on 9 and 12 June were thought to be very violent. The storm had just begun. Those protests and clashes were mild in comparison with events in the months that followed.

THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

Monday 1 July 2019 - Storming of the LegCo Complex

4.32 Similar to previous years, CHRF launched the 1 July procession from Victoria Park to CGC that afternoon. Since 29 June 2019, there had been messages on the internet calling for people to disrupt the flag-raising ceremony in the morning of 1 July 2019, block the major thoroughfares near the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre (HKCEC) and attack the LegCo Complex to press for Government withdrawal of the Fugitive Offenders Bill.

(Image source: LIHKG)

4.33 In the small hours of 1 July 2019, protesters started gathering outside the LegCo Complex. They later occupied the roads outside LegCo Complex and near the HKCEC. In the early morning, there were sporadic clashes between some protesters and the Police in these areas. At 10:44, the Police withdrew to avoid confrontations.

4.34 Around 13:17, some protesters used metal rods and a cart loaded with objects to smash the glass panels repeatedly at Members' Entrance 2 of the LegCo Complex.

4.35 Around 17:00, protesters moved to Public Entrance 1 and smashed the glass panels there. Around 21:00, they broke into the LegCo Complex and threw at the police officers inside objects that emitted a billowing white powdery smoke believed to be acidic and poisonous. The police officers retreated to the adjacent Central Government Office, leaving the LegCo Complex unguarded. After entering the LegCo Complex, the violent protesters remained inside for about three hours, vandalising the main chamber, computer server rooms, offices and desks designated for Members. This resulted in a cost of about $40 million for repairing. The restoration and repair of essential meeting facilities of the LegCo Complex were completed in early October 2019. However, the restoration of glass panels was still underway as at mid-March 2020.³³ The Police took dispersal action in the vicinity of the LegCo Complex around midnight, when most of the protesters had already left.

4.37 On 4 July 2019, some posts on LIHKG called for netizens to use social media to persuade companies not to place advertisements with Television Broadcasts Limited (TVB), accusing TVB of reporting fake news or news in favour of the Government during the protests. Saturday 6 July to Sunday 14 July 2019 - Protests in Various Districts

4.38 The frequency and scale of protests escalated from 1 July 2019 onwards, with protests being staged in different districts. On Saturday 6 July 2019, a few thousand protesters covered by LoNO, marched in Tuen Mun with a theme “Reclaim Tuen Mun Park”. This was in protest against the nuisance from the singing and dancing performances of some middle-aged women commonly known as “dama” (大媽), which attracted many older men from the neighbourhood, and the lack of action by the authorities to stop these activities. In the evening, a few hundred protesters surrounded Tuen Mun Police Station and occupied the roads outside. The protesters left only after police officers formed a cordon line outside for dispersal action.³⁵

4.39 On Sunday 7 July 2019, tens of thousands of protesters marched, with LoNO, from Tsim Sha Tsui to West Kowloon Station, to promote their cause to Mainland visitors and to win their support.³⁶ One message on LIHKG wrote, “I hope this march can tell Mainland people what we are fighting for and sow a seed against tyranny.”³⁷ Upon conclusion of the peaceful procession at 19:30, thousands of protesters went “shopping” in Mong Kok where clashes broke out when the Police took dispersal action. The Police arrested five persons.³⁸

4.40 The clashes on 7 July 2019 between the protesters and the Police in Yau Ma Tei continued in the early hours of 8 July 2019. During the Police operation in dispersing protesters, the Police formed a cordon line on Nathan Road. A large crowd of reporters stood in front of the cordon line. This created an impression that the police officers might not be able to advance. Some Legislative Councillors were among the reporters and negotiated with the Police with a loudhailer. One of the Legislative Councillors was later arrested and charged with two counts of “Assaulting a Police Officer” with the loudhailer.³⁹

4.42 On Saturday 13 July 2019, some protesters marched in Sheung Shui with LoNO, to “reclaim” Sheung Shui from the parallel trading activities which affected the daily lives of residents and caused overcrowding on-street. They also demanded the complete withdrawal of the Fugitive Offenders Bill. The organiser estimated a turnout of 30 000 while the Police counted 4 000 at the peak. Shortly after the march, clashes broke out between the protesters and some parallel tradesmen. When the Police took dispersal action, some protesters surrounded and attacked officers with umbrellas and metal poles. Some other protesters occupied roads. The crowd was eventually dispersed by night-time. At least ten police officers and 14 civilians were injured. The Police arrested four persons. The protesters were mostly young people, highly organised and well prepared to tackle police officers with weapons.⁴¹

4.43 On Sunday 14 July 2019, the protesters launched the “Sha Tin Procession” with LoNO, when some protesters occupied the roads near East Rail Line Sha Tin Station. The organiser of the march estimated 115 000 participated while the Police counted 28 000 at the peak.

4.44 Clashes broke out when the Police took dispersal action. Many protesters ran into New Town Plaza where they had further violent clashes with the pursuing police officers. Outnumbered by the violent protesters, the police officers were violently attacked by the protesters with umbrellas and other objects. The officers were kicked and punched, and hard objects were hurled at them from all directions. Scenes in the shopping mall were chaotic and particularly violent. A video footage recorded a plainclothes officer being kicked from an escalator by a protester and then assaulted by others when he fell to the ground until a journalist came to his rescue. Another police officer had a section of a finger bitten off by a protester. A total of 11 police officers were injured. According to Hospital Authority (HA), 28 persons were treated at various hospitals in relation to the POEs that day. The Police arrested 47 persons. The clashes in the New Town Plaza were far more unruly and ferocious than the previous clashes. Yet, it was only the beginning of increasing violence that followed.⁴²

Sunday 21 July 2019 - Clashes outside LOCPG and the Yuen Long Incident

4.45 On 21 July 2019, CHRF launched a march with LoNO to walk from Victoria Park to Luard Road in Wan Chai. According to CHRF, 430 000 took part but the Police count was 138 000 at peak time. The protesters proclaimed their demands.

4.46 Many protesters did not stop at Luard Road but continued to walk in the direction of Sheung Wan. On arriving at LOCPG, they threw eggs and black ink or paint at the building and defaced the National Emblem on the building.⁴³ Violent clashes broke out with the Police. The protesters substantially escalated their violence in the disturbances: blocking roads, setting objects on fire and using different weapons including sling shots to cause injury. According to the Police, the violent protesters also used petrol bombs.⁴⁴ The turmoil continued until midnight. In the operation, the Police fired nine rubber rounds, 25 react rounds and 55 rounds of tear gas.⁴⁵

4.47 As the Police attended to the disturbances in Western District, the situation in Yuen Long had been simmering since late afternoon with people dressed in white believed to be indigenous villagers gathering at Fung Yau Street North.⁴⁶ At 22:48, about 70 or so dressed in white, some carrying sticks and wooden poles, entered Yuen Long Station where they assaulted a group of about 100 people in black outfits, first in the paid area and later in the compartments of a train on the upper platform. Commuters on the train were also hurt. When the Police arrived at Yuen Long Station, some of those people dressed in white had left. The police officers, however, did not stop others in white who were then leaving. The Police also did not act in some subsequent assault incidents committed by the persons in white later at Yuen Long Station. Police failure to act or to respond promptly in the incidents gave rise to allegations of collusion between the Police and triads on the internet.⁴⁷ The inappropriate responses of two senior officers to media enquiries that night reinforced such allegations.

4.48 The Yuen Long Incident did not take place without cause. On the evening of 16 July 2019, some protest supporters had a confrontation with a group dressed in white at a public screening of alleged police brutality held by the protest supporters at Fung Yau Street North. Soon after, there were online messages calling for people to “reclaim” Yuen Long and to take part in a public meeting to be held in Yuen Long on 21 July 2019. In response, the opponent vowed to beat up the protest supporters if they dared to go to Yuen Long. Prior to 21 July 2019, the Police was aware of these development. The protesters used the social media to coordinate their action and disseminate accusations against the Police. Details of the Yuen Long Incident are at Chapter 10.

Friday 26 July 2019 – First Rally at Airport

4.49 The first rally at the Hong Kong International Airport (Airport) was held on 26 July 2019 with LoNO. Protesters distributed leaflets and displayed posters to inform travellers of their reasons for protest and to enlist support from the international community.⁴⁸

Saturday 27 July 2019 - Violent Protests in Yuen Long

4.50 On Saturday 27 July 2019, despite Police refusal to issue a LoNO, about 288 000 protesters (according to the event organiser), some wearing helmets and protective gears, marched on the roads in Yuen Long on a cause dubbed “Reclaim Yuen Long”, and blocked major roads in the district. When the Police turned up calling for dispersal, the protesters began attacking the Police with umbrellas, bricks, wooden shields and other objects. Violent protesters later surrounded Yuen Long Police Station, again throwing bricks and other objects, causing obstruction outside the station and the suspension of Police Report Room services.⁴⁹ On this day, the Police fired 118 rounds of tear gas and 30 rubber rounds,⁵⁰ and arrested ten persons.⁵¹

Sunday 28 July 2019 - Violent Protests in Western District

4.51 On 28 July 2019, there was another protest on Hong Kong Island when participants of an authorised sit-in at Chater Garden diverted to Causeway Bay and Western District in the late afternoon in defiance of the conditions set in the LoNO. Along the way, the protesters chanted “香港警察 知法犯法” (Translation: Hong Kong Police knowingly breaks the law) and “光復香港 時代革命” (Translation: Liberate Hong Kong; revolution of our times). A group of violent protesters who went to Causeway Bay blocked the road outside Sogo Department Store. Another group of about 200 violent protesters who went in the direction of LOCPG had violent clashes in Sheung Wan with police officers in full riot gear and full-length shields, batons and other less-lethal weapons. The violent protesters also wore helmets, gas masks, and were equipped with self-made shields. They hurled bricks and other hard objects at the police officers. They also charged a cart carrying objects on fire at the Police cordon line.⁵² The Police responded with 408 rounds of tear gas, 95 rubber rounds, two super sock rounds and 50 react rounds. The Police arrested 58 persons. What happened on 27 and 28 July was practically a replay of the incident took place on 21 July 2019, but with the violence considerably escalated.

4.52 The frequency, the scale and the level of violence in the protests in July 2019 were markedly escalated in comparison with those in June 2019. In July 2019, 52 public meetings/processions were approved by the Police with six rejected. For June 2019, the figures were 20 approved with one rejected. In July 2019, the Police fired a total of 608 rounds of tear gas, 134 rubber rounds, three super sock rounds and 114 react rounds, and arrested 224.

Highlights of August 2019

- Violent protesters launched city-wide protests (5, 10, 11 and 31 August 2019) and escalated their violent acts. Police stations were besieged.
- Violent protesters began using “Be Water” and urban guerrilla tactics, and an App tracking police movements appeared on the internet.
- Violent protesters targeted major transport infrastructures: Cross Harbour Tunnel (3, 4, 5, and 10 August 2019), Airport (12 and 13 August 2019) and MTR stations (after 24 August 2019).
- “An Eye for an Eye” and Yuen Long Incident were used in social media to call for participation in protests and escalation of violence.

- The escalated violence by protesters led to the Police introducing Specialised Crowd Management Vehicles (SCMVs) on 25 August 2019 and firing a warning shot on the same night.
- The Prince Edward Station Incident on 31 August 2019 was taken as a reason to further escalate protests and violence. That night, two warning shots were fired by two plainclothes police officers while being attacked by violent protesters.

4.53 Up till the end of July 2019, it became evident that violent clashes invariably followed peaceful and lawful public meetings or processions. The violent protesters would digress from lawful events to spark off disturbances elsewhere. From August onwards, as violent protesters resorted to urban guerrilla tactics, using the MTR lines to launch territory-wide disturbances without relying on any approved public meeting or procession. They also adopted “Be Water” tactics to evade arrest. Beginning in August 2019, the frequency, the scale and the level of violence in the protests intensified exponentially.

Thursday 1 to Sunday 4 August 2019 - Attacks on Police Stations

Saturday 3 August 2019 - Violent Protests in Wong Tai Sin

4.54 Following the siege of Yuen Long Police Station on 27 July 2019, siege and attacks of police stations, mostly near MTR stations, became commonplace. For three consecutive days on 1, 2 and 3 August 2019, protesters besieged Ma On Shan Police Station. On 1 August 2019, protesters also targeted Sha Tin Police Station.⁵³ On 3 August 2019, a number of protesters deviated from the designated route of an approved march in Tai Kok Tsui and went to Mong Kok and Tsim Sha Tsui where the protesters clashed with the Police. After the Police dispersal action, some of the protesters fled to Wong Tai Sin. Clashes broke out there after the Police arrested some protesters. Some local residents joined the violent protesters to hurl objects and umbrellas, and discharged a fire extinguisher at police officers.⁵⁴ They then besieged Wong Tai Sin Police Station and the Disciplined Services Quarters next to it, attacking both with numerous objects. Police officers fired multiple rounds of tear gas for dispersal.

4.55 That night, Mong Kok Police Station and Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station were also under siege with violent protesters throwing bricks and hard objects. Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station was in particular their target. Violent protesters set fire at various locations in its vicinity, damaged several vehicles inside the station with bamboo sticks, bricks and others hard objects hurled into the building. On 3 August 2019, the Police fired 107 rounds of tear gas and arrested 24 persons.

4.56 On the night of 4 August 2019, hundreds of violent protesters staged another stand-off outside Wong Tai Sin Police Station, occasionally attacking with bricks and miscellaneous objects.⁵⁵ Police officers responded with multiple rounds of tear gas, rubber rounds and react rounds in attempts at dispersal. That night, the Police fired 109 rounds of tear gas, 29 rubber rounds and nine react rounds. 57 persons were arrested. In the two weeks leading to Sunday 11 August 2019, 18 police stations were attacked by protesters.⁵⁶

Toll Booths of Cross Harbour Tunnel Barricaded

4.57 The Cross Harbour Tunnel at Hung Hom was also a target. In the late afternoon of 3 August 2019, some violent protesters barricaded the toll booths at the entrance in Hung Hom, blocking the traffic into and out of the tunnel. On 3, 4, 5 and 10 August 2019,⁵⁷ protesters again placed various objects at the toll booths, paralysing the tunnel traffic.

Monday 5 August - Territory-wide Violent Protests

4.58 On 4 August 2019, there was a post at 21:23 on LIHKG introducing a real-time crowdsourced map – HKmap.live.⁵⁸ The map shows the whereabouts of police officers near the scenes of attack.⁵⁹ The post also encouraged the protesters to “Be Water” and use this map to plan their strategy. On Monday 5 August 2019, the protesters extended the scope and the scale of their action. The social media was awash with calls to launch a city-wide strike and uncooperative campaign on that day.⁶⁰ Many messages were posted on social media urging people to go on strike on 5 August 2019.

“6月9日至今，全港氣氛凝重而壓抑，一場又一場的聯署、遊行、集會，非但沒令政府正視當前問題，7月21日發生的元朗恐襲事件更顯示政府無力保護市民。民間提出的五大訴求，政府置若罔聞，但幾十名年輕人及其他示威人士卻已犧牲了他們的大好前途，他們被拘捕被起訴，為的就是我們愛的香港，如今正正就是和理非回報他們的大好機會。”

4.60 On 5 August 2019, protesters resorted to urban guerrilla tactics in multiple districts in Hong Kong Island, Kowloon and the New Territories, blocking roads at many busy thoroughfares: suddenly cropping up and barricading the roads before vanishing very quickly. The General Strikes brought chaos to the transport network of Hong Kong, including the air transport. Protesters blocked the MTR train doors using flash-mob-style tactics. Eight MTR lines were affected and more than 200 flights were cancelled.⁶²

4.61 Violent protesters also moved on to a number of police stations including Kwai Chung Police Station, Sha Tin Police Station, Sham Shui Po Police Station and Tin Shui Wai Police Station, hurling hard objects, petrol bombs and setting fire outside the stations. That evening, some protesters had fights in North Point and Tsuen Wan with people dressed in white and holding wooden poles who, according to some media, were members of the Fujianese community.⁶³ On this day, the Police discharged about a thousand rounds of tear gas, 170 rubber rounds and 11 super sock rounds in 14 districts – a record high up to 11 August 2019. The Police also arrested 165 persons.

Tuesday 6 August to Saturday 10 August 2019 - Violent Protests

4.62 On the night of 6 August 2019, a few hundred protesters assembled outside Sham Shui Po Police Station, chanting “triad cops” and “triad society”. Some again shone laser beams, hurled bricks and glass bottles at the station.⁶⁴

4.63 On 7 August 2019, hundreds of protesters gathered at Hong Kong Space Museum and shone their laser pointers on the egg-shaped dome of the museum in protest against the arrest of the Student Union President of Hong Kong Baptist University (HKBU) for possession of offensive weapons (POOW), i.e. “laser gun”, the day before.⁶⁵

4.64 On 10 August 2019, there were protests in Tai Po, Tai Wai, Sha Tin, Kwun Tong, Wong Tai Sin, Tsuen Wan, Tsim Sha Tsui, and other districts.⁶⁶ Protesters set up barricades with railings and signs torn off the road, blocked a number of thoroughfares including the Kowloon entrances of the Cross Harbour Tunnel. Clashes occurred in at least seven districts with police officers firing tear gas in Tai Wai and Tsim Sha Tsui while some violent protesters threw petrol bombs and objects such as stones at police officers. Some protesters laid siege to Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station, setting fire outside it, shining laser pointers, and blocking the station with miscellaneous objects. To disperse the violent protesters, the Police fired 56 rounds of tear gas and nine rubber rounds. 13 persons were arrested.

Sunday 11 August 2019 - Violent Protests

4.65 For 11 August 2019, the protesters launched three large-scale public procession and meetings, at Victoria Park, Maple Street Playground in Sham Shui Po and the Airport respectively. The Airport rally had not notified to the Police fo LoNO. For safety reasons, the Police issued a LoNO only for the public meeting at Victoria Park, objecting the other public meetings and processions in Sham Shui Po and Hong Kong Island East. Beginning in August 2019, messages had appeared on the internet inciting people to adopt urban guerrilla tactics for extensive damage and blockage of thoroughfares. The real-time crowdsourced map tracking the locations of the Police was enhanced on 10 August 2019.

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM
THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.66 Calls for escalation of protest action and violence continued to circulate on the internet in August 2019.

Image 4-31: Social media message urging people to protest on 11 August 2019
(Image source: LIHKG)

4.67 The Police anticipated that protesters would escalate action to paralyse city traffic and attack police officers with highly offensive weapons and great violence. Hence, the Police deployed some 3 850 officers for contingencies across various districts.

4.68 On 11 August 2019, protests took place in multiple locations. Protesters branched out from the originally scheduled public procession and public meetings to stage disturbances in various districts. On the Hong Kong Island side, some protesters sprayed graffiti on the base of the Golden Bauhinia sculpture, while others blocked the roads outside PHQ and set different objects on fire. From 17:00 till after midnight, protesters adopted urban guerrilla tactics, using the MTR to mobilise themselves swiftly to occupy roads at different locations in the vicinity and then moving on to other spots. On Hong Kong Island, they occupied roads in North Point, Wan Chai, Causeway Bay, Quarry Bay, Tai Koo Shing and Sai Wan Ho. Clashes broke out when the Police took action for dispersal. At Tai Koo Station, there was an incident of shooting pepper balls by the Police at close range.

4.69 In Kowloon, from 16:00 to after midnight, like those on Hong Kong Island, groups of protesters reportedly travelled by MTR to different districts to block roads including Tsim Sha Tsui, Mei Foo, Kowloon Tong, Kwai Fong, and Sha Tin. At Kwai Fong Station, there was an incident of firing of tear gas inside the Station. They staged protests outside Cheung Sha Wan Police Station, Sham Shui Po Police Station, Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station, Kwai Chung Police Station and Sha Tin Police Station. Among these, Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station was under the most serious attack from bricks, hard objects and petrol bombs. Cross Harbour Tunnel was also blocked by protesters that day. The events on 11 August leading to the Police use of force in Kwai Fong and Tai Koo Stations are looked at in Chapter 11.

4.70 Clashes broke out between violent protesters and the Police in various districts and outside many police stations. The violent protesters hurled petrol bombs, bricks and other hard objects at the police officers who in response used tear gas and other less-lethal weapons. On that single day, the Police fired 361 rounds of tear gas, 27 rubber rounds, and 14 super sock rounds and arrested 101 persons. Among the arrested persons, 53 were sent to San Uk Ling Holding Centre (SULHC) directly for post-arrest processing. The use of SULHC by the Police as a temporary holding area is looked at in Chapter 14.

4.71 An incident on 11 August 2019 which achieved the most prominence in media reports and on the internet was the incident in which a female person sustained an injury to her eye outside Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station at night allegedly caused by the Police. Pictorial materials alleging “police brutality”, “eye for eye” after 11 August 2019 were posted on the social media.

Image 4-32: Social media message after 11 August 2019
(Image source: Facebook)

4.72 The female sustaining eye injury, however, refused to cooperate with the Police to investigate what had caused the injury and refused to let the Police see her medical report. As a result, the Police obtained the document by search warrant, which she then challenged by applying for Judicial Review. Following the court ruling in favour of the Police on 22 January 2020, the female filed an appeal. As at 29 February 2020, a hearing date has yet to be fixed. Nonetheless, this claim that she had been shot in the eye by the Police had been the cause for further protests.

Monday 12 August to Friday 30 August 2019 – Protests

4.73 On 12 August 2019, in response to the social media allegations of “police brutality”, thousands of protesters gathered at the Airport with signs proclaiming “Evil Police - An Eye for An Eye” accusing the Police of injuring the female’s eye.⁶⁷

4.75 On the same day, about a hundred people gathered in Tai Koo Station to vent grievance against police operations at the station on 11 August. They surrounded station staff and the control room demanding explanations for MTRC's handling of the incident during and after the event.

4.76 On 13 August 2019, some protesters again gathered at the Airport and blocked the passageways to the restricted area.⁶⁸ The Airport Authority suspended all check-in service for departure flights after 16:30. Disputes arose between some protesters and passengers in the Departure Hall. In the evening, some protesters tied up a male passenger whom they believed to be an undercover police officer. Around 23:00, the Police accompanied a number of ambulance officers to go inside the Airport to take the injured passenger to hospital. After the ambulance officers had rescued him, many protesters attacked the police officers guarding at the Airport entrance. The officers defended themselves with OC Foam and batons. One officer was fiercely assaulted and his baton was snatched. He pulled out his revolver to ward off the protesters attacking him.⁶⁹ Shortly after, a second man, later revealed to be a Global Times reporter, was beaten and tied up by the protesters. On the following day, the Airport Authority said it had been granted an interim injunction order from the High Court on 13 August 2019 for restraining protesters from attending or participating in any protests or public events in the Airport.⁷⁰

4.77 On 14 August 2019, protesters gathered outside police stations in Sham Shui Po, Tai Po and Tin Shui Wai to mark the Ghost Festival, burning joss paper (an offering to the dead) and shone laser pointers at these police stations. The protest in Sham Shui Po led to firing of tear gas for dispersal.

4.78 On 17 August 2019, a group of protesters took to the street to “Reclaim Hung Hom and To Kwa Wan”, where they deviated from the approved route and occupied roads along their way from Hung Hom to Mong Kok. Protesters blocked Nathan Road and laid siege to Mong Kok Police Station. Some protesters on a footbridge near Mong Kok Road hurled miscellaneous objects including a litterbin at police officers and a police vehicle underneath.

4.79 On Sunday 18 August 2019, CHRF organised a procession from Victoria Park. According to CHRF, 1.7 million took part but the Police had a count of 128 000 at peak time.

4.80 On 19 August 2019, the Hong Kong Journalists Association found a press card purportedly issued by a Macau media institution. Verification with the institution confirmed that it did not issue such press card to that person. The holder of the card was suspected to be a fake reporter.

4.81 On 20 August 2019, about a hundred people again gathered in Tai Koo Station to vent grievance against the Police operation at the station on 11 August 2019. Similar to the event on 12 August 2019, they surrounded station staff and the control room to demand explanations for MTRC’s handling of the incident during and after the event.⁷¹

4.82 On 21 August 2019, about a thousand protesters assembled at Yuen Long Station in commemoration of the Yuen Long Incident on 21 July 2019.⁷² Some violent protesters set up barriers on the roads outside the station. When police officers took action to clear the barriers, these protesters retreated into Yuen Long Station. The Police formed a cordon line at a distance from the station, while protesters barricaded station entrances with objects including metal fences and rubbish bins and let down the rollers shutter to bar entrance. Inside Yuen Long Station, some of the protesters discharged foam from fire extinguishers, while others used a firehose and liquid soap to wet the floor to obstruct the Police’s entry to the station. They sprayed paint on the walls and on CCTV cameras inside the station. They removed the stands and bins and damaged amenities including an escalator, before they took

4.83 On 23 August 2019, the MTRC announced that *“If fights, vandalism or other acts of violence occur, and under high risks or emergency situations, train service to and from the concerned stations may be stopped immediately, and /or the station may be closed, with little or no prior notice. The Police may need to enter stations to take suitable law enforcement action when necessary.”*⁷³ At around 22:00 on that day, MTRC announced that they had obtained an interim injunction order⁷⁴ to restrain people from obstructing or interfering with the operation of the railway, damaging any property at any station or using any threatening language or behaving in a riotous or disorderly manner at any station.⁷⁵ On the following day, protesters dubbed MTRC the “Communist Party’s railway” (黨鐵), accusing it of taking sides to help suppress protesters travelling on MTR on protest days. From then on, almost every protest saw violent protesters damaging facilities inside MTR stations and setting the entrances on fire.

4.84 On Saturday 24 August and Sunday 25 August 2019, public meetings and processions with LoNO were held in Kwun Tong District and Kwai Tsing District respectively.

4.88 Some protesters threw petrol bombs, bricks and other hard objects at police officers who responded with tear gas to disperse them. For the first time, the Police used the SCMV, but while it could temporarily disperse the crowd, the violent protests would continue. At nightfall, some violent protesters attacked shops and a mahjong house in Yi Pei Square, Tsuen Wan. Some attacked police officers with long metal poles and various self-made weapons. The police officers were in a precarious position as they were outnumbered by violent protesters who were relentless in their attack on the officers. To protect themselves, several police officers drew their revolvers and one of them fired a warning shot into the air, enabling himself and his colleagues to escape from the scene. That night, persistent violent protests spread to different locations including Kwun Tong, Sham Shui Po, Tsim Sha Tsui and Wong Tai Sin. On 25 August 2019, in addition to one warning shot fired in Tsuen Wan, the Police used 145 rounds of tear gas, 50 rubber rounds, six super sock rounds and 13 react rounds and arrested 57 persons.

4.89 Starting from 25 August 2019, hundreds of protesters surrounded Shum Shui Po Police Station for five consecutive days.

Violent protests on 31 August 2019

4.90 On 31 August 2014, the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress made a decision concerning the election of the Chief Executive and LegCo of the HKSAR.⁷⁹ The OCM in 2014 set off after this decision.

4.91 In commemoration of the OCM in 2014 against this decision, CHRF organised an assembly to be held at Chater Garden on the afternoon of 31 August 2019 and, after the assembly, a march to LOCPG. For public safety reasons, the Police refused the applications. Nonetheless, the Police noticed from the internet that the protesters would proceed despite the Police objection and there were suggestions of attack on police officers and damage to different government premises with a high level of violence. According to a news article⁸⁰, democratic LegCo Members asked citizens to 'Be Water' to avoid being arrested.

4.92 On 31 August 2019, the Police deployed officers to defend CGC and to respond to contingencies at multiple locations. They put up water-filled barriers around CGC and closed the road network outside CGC. SCMV^s were prepared for deployment and a number of plainclothes officers were tasked for arrest action against violent protesters.

4.93 Violent protests surfaced in multiple locations on 31 August 2019. In the early afternoon, they occupied roads at different locations, Arsenal Street and Lockhart Road in Wan Chai, Hennessy Road in Wan Chai and Causeway Bay and Connaught Road in Admiralty and Central. Traffic cones, rubbish bins, mills barriers, dismantled railings and other large objects were used. At CGC, some violent protesters threw bricks and petrol bombs at the police officers and set off fires at the water-filled barriers outside CGC.⁸¹ The Police fired tear gas for crowd dispersal and deployed an SCMV to discharge water with blue dye from behind the water-filled barriers. The clashes in Admiralty were intense and violent. Such protests subsequently spread towards Causeway Bay and Tin Hau on Hong Kong Island and to Tsim Sha Tsui and Mong Kok in Kowloon. In the late evening, violent protesters set fire to objects they had heaped on Hennessy Road outside SOGO Department Store.⁸² Around 21:00, dozens of protesters confronted several plainclothes officers at Victoria Park and assaulted them with iron rods and umbrellas, even attempting to snatch their revolvers. As a result, two plainclothes officers fired two warning shots to stop the violent protesters.⁸³ Eight people were arrested in that incident.

protesters fled to Yau Ma Tei and Mong Kok, continuing to cause obstruction along Nathan Road. Some of them entered Mong Kok Station to damage the facilities inside with iron bars and hammers. By the time the Police arrived, some of them had already left. Some of them went to Prince Edward Station where the Incident on 31 August 2019 subsequently took place.

4.95 That evening, police officers entered Prince Edward Station and arrested 52 persons. They closed the exits to prevent violent protesters from entering or leaving the MTR station in order to take law enforcement action. They arranged for a special train to take 45 of the arrested persons to Lai Chi Kok to be further taken to Kwai Chung Police Station and to hospitals for those who were injured. After the incidents, messages appeared on the internet accusing the Police of killing several persons inside the MTR station. Despite the absence of evidence to support this claim, many would still place flowers at one of the exits of Prince Edward Station on the last day of each month in memory of those alleged deceased. Up till Feb 2020, protesters used the incident as an excuse to launch protests.

4.96 During a search in a shop at Sai Ying Pun on 31 August 2019, 12 fake press cards were found among other items. The badges had photos of three persons whose occupations were actually businessman, bank staff and make-up artist.⁸⁵ Furthermore, the media agency did not exist at that time.

4.97 During the violent protests in August 2019, the Police fired a total of 2 187 rounds of tear gas, 405 rubber rounds, 43 super sock rounds, 130 react rounds and three live rounds. 751 persons were arrested.⁸⁶ Chapter 12 contains a detailed study of the Prince Edward Station Incident on 31 August 2019.

4.98 Following the severely violent protests in August 2019, the protests in September 2019 were considerably less violent and less frequent. Meanwhile, MTR stations had become frequent targets of repeated vandalism and arson in violent protests.

Sunday 1 September 2019 - Paralysing Traffic to the Airport

4.99 The protesters did not stage any demonstration or assembly at the Airport after the Airport Authority had obtained an injunction order forbidding from the Court. On 1 September 2019, however, protesters resumed their disturbances to the Airport, this time by disrupting the traffic going to the transportation hub. At around 14:18, they set up barricades with trolleys and other miscellaneous items near the bus terminal of the Airport. Cars and buses were unable to reach the Airport. Passengers and air crews had to walk all the way from Tung Chung. Commuters and passengers could not take the Airport Express to the Airport as the service had been disrupted by objects thrown to the restricted area of the railway track by protesters. Some violent protesters also damaged the facilities at Tung Chung Station and Tsing Yi Station. When police officers walked to the Airport for dispersal action, the protesters left area on foot and returned to the urban area by ferry or by bus. 25 flights were cancelled.⁸⁷

4.100 The protesters later called for another disruption to the Airport on 7 September 2019. The Police set up road blocks for search on the motorway to the Airport. A number of people, found carrying helmets and masks in their bags, were taken away by the Police.⁸⁸ The Police also warned drivers against intentionally driving slowly on the motorway on Lantau Island. An SCMV, tow trucks and armoured vehicles were arranged on stand-by at nearby locations. Bailiffs were present at the Airport, asking people to leave if they were not taking any flights.⁸⁹

Wednesday 4 to Tuesday 10 September 2019 – Protesters Vandalised MTR Stations and Besieged Mong Kok Police Station

4.101 Since 24 August 2019, MTR stations became targets of repeated vandalism by violent protesters after they dubbed MTRC as a “Communist Party’s railway”. Between 4 and 8 September 2019, violent protesters sabotaged the facilities of a number of MTR stations, including Admiralty, Causeway Bay, Central, Mong Kok, Po Lam, Prince Edward, Sha Tin, Tai Po Market, Tin Hau, Tseung Kwan O, Wan Chai and Yau Ma Tei.⁹⁰ As a result, on 13 September 2019, MTRC planned to hire former members of the Brigade of Gurkhas in Hong Kong to tackle the problem.⁹¹

4.102 Mong Kok Police Station was also a target of siege and attack. It was besieged every night between 2 and 4 September, 6 September, 21 September and 22 September 2019.⁹²

Monday 2 September to Tuesday 3 September – Student and Work Strikes

4.103 On 2 September 2019, several thousand secondary and tertiary students from 230 schools took part in strikes at their schools. Around 3 000 people attended a sit-in assembly at The Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK). At around 21:00, people gathered at the Prince Edward Station to commemorate the Prince Edward Station Incident on 31 August 2019 and sprayed the MTR CCTV cameras with black ink. They later besieged the nearby Mong Kok Police Station, throwing eggs and shining laser beams at the station. They then occupied Nathan Road. The Police responded with tear gas and pepper spray. The violent protesters dispersed late at night.⁹³

Wednesday 4 September 2019 – the Chief Executive Withdrew the Fugitive Offenders Bill

4.104 On 4 September 2019, the Chief Executive announced that the Government would withdraw the Fugitive Offenders Bill.⁹⁴ After the announcement, the violent protests abated for a while before the momentum picked up from mid-September onwards.

4.106 On 8 September 2019, thousands of protesters marched to the Consulate General of the US in Central, urging the US Government to enact the Hong Kong Human Rights and Democracy Act.⁹⁶

Saturday 14 September 2019 – Clashes in Kowloon Bay

4.107 In the afternoon of 14 September 2019, a scuffle broke out outside Kowloon Bay Station between pro-establishment and anti-Government groups. There was also fighting and confrontation between the two camps inside Amoy Plaza and at a Lennon Wall nearby.⁹⁷

Sunday 15 September 2019 – Violent Protests on Hong Kong Island

4.108 CHRF organised a march on 15 September 2019 to walk from East Point Road in Causeway Bay to Chater Road in Central. Despite Police disapproval of the event, protesters proceeded as scheduled. During the procession, some violent protesters threw petrol bombs and bricks at CGC, and set barricades on the eastbound Harcourt Road and Hennessy Road outside the closed Sogo Department Store. They also burnt a National Flag outside a hotel in Wan Chai, damaged the CCTV camera outside Wan Chai Station and set fire at its Exit A3. Some protesters smashed the glass panels at Exit A of Admiralty Station at the Admiralty Centre and

4.109 In response, the Police fired tear gas, rubber rounds and react rounds at various locations including areas outside Admiralty Station, Tim Wa Avenue, Harcourt Road in Admiralty, and Hennessey Road near Wan Chai Station. An SCMV discharged water with blue-dyed outside CGC to disperse the crowds at Harcourt Road. According to the Police, protesters threw more than 80 petrol bombs, some of which landed on the SCMV, the “Civic Square” outside CGC and Harcourt Road in Admiralty.⁹⁹ In Wan Chai, around 20 protesters attacked two traffic police officers with petrol bombs near the junction of Gloucester Road and Marsh Road. In the face of such violent acts of the protesters, the officers had to draw their guns in self-defence.¹⁰⁰

4.110 In the evening, some protesters fought with a large group of Fujianese in Fortress Hill while the Police dispersed the violent protesters in North Point by firing rounds of tear gas.¹⁰¹

Saturday 21 September 2019 – Violent Protests in Tuen Mun and Yuen Long

4.112 21 September 2019 was the two-month commemoration of the Yuen Long Incident on 21 July 2019. There were appeals on the internet to “Reclaim Tuen Mun” on 21 September 2019 in protest against the “dama” in Tuen Mun Park causing nuisance to the neighbourhood. It was the second protest in Tuen Mun over this, the first having been on 6 July 2019. The Police objected to the march but the Appeal Board on Public Meetings and Processions allowed it but with shorter duration, from 14:00 to 17:00.¹⁰³

4.113 That afternoon, hundreds of protesters marched from San Wo Lane Playground to Tuen Mun Government Offices. When the procession reached the Government Offices around 15:43, some protesters burnt the National Flag and damaged the facilities at the Light Rail Station, causing MTRC to stop the Light Rail service and the connecting bus service. Some protesters proceeded to put up barricades with mill barriers and water-filled barriers and set various objects on fire on the roads. According to the Police, some of them were equipped with metal rods, catapults and laser pointers. The protesters remained on the road despite repeated warnings by the Police.¹⁰⁴

4.114 The protests soon escalated into clashes between the violent protesters and the Police. Violent protesters threw rocks, hard objects and petrol bombs at the police officers who responded with tear gas and other less-lethal weapons. Some protesters discharged fire extinguishers at the Police cordon line. Many shops pulled down the shutters. The violent protests very soon spread out to other locations.

4.115 In one episode at Tuen Hi Road, when a police officer subdued an escaping protester onto the ground, at least seven violent protesters came to his rescue. These violent protesters hit the police officer with umbrellas, metal poles and wooden poles. One violent protester even attempted to snatch the officer's firearm, though unsuccessful. These violent protesters quickly dispersed when Police reinforcement arrived. Most of the protesters left the area by 18:30.¹⁰⁵

4.116 Two LegCo Members were at Tuen Wui Street near Tuen Mun Town Hall. They tried to get the name and the identity card number of a protester arrested by the Police. One of them told the arrested protester that they could provide legal assistance to him.¹⁰⁶

4.117 Many protesters planned a sit-in protest inside the Yuen Long Station to commemorate the Yuen Long Incident. As MTRC closed the Yuen Long Station early, the protesters went to the adjacent Yoho Mall where they chanted “Liberate Hong Kong; revolution of our times” and sang “Glory to Hong Kong”. Some of them sprayed alcohol and slippery liquid on the floor at the entrance to Yuen Long Station from Yoho Mall.¹⁰⁷

4.118 Later in the evening, many protesters appeared at different locations in the town area of Yuen Long, including Fung Yau Street North and Fung Cheung Street. Subsequently, there were clashes between the protesters and the Police. The protesters hurled petrol bombs at the police officers, and who then fired tear gas at the violent protesters in Fung Cheung Street. Meanwhile, at Fung Yau Street North, a member of “Protect the Children” wearing a yellow T-shirt was arrested by the Police for “Assaulting Police Officer” and taken to a back alley.¹⁰⁸ It was claimed that police officers kicking this person here was captured on videos.¹⁰⁹ However, the Police in a press conference stated that the videos only showed a “yellow object”, not a person.¹¹⁰ This response created widespread backlash from some netizens for dehumanising a person. The violent protests lasted until midnight.

4.119 That evening in Mong Kok, some violent protesters blocked Nathan Road with rubbish bins, railings and other objects. They also besieged Mong Kok Police Station. The Police reacted with PAVAsolution. In Tseung Kwan O, the Police arrested a 13-year-old boy for “Unlawful Assembly”, “POOW” and “Possession of Instrument Fit for Unlawful Purpose”. Some local residents were angered by the police action and over 100 people besieged Tseung Kwan O Police Station. They hurled objects at the police station, set up barricades at the vehicular entrance there. The Police fired tear gas.¹¹¹

4.120 On 21 September 2019, the Police fired 43 rounds of tear gas, six rubber rounds, one super sock round and 11 react rounds. The Police arrested 31 persons.¹¹²

Sunday 22 September 2019 - Naked Body of an Female Student Found and Clashes in Different Districts

4.121 On 22 September 2019, a naked body of a 15-year-old female student of Vocational Training Council (VTC), who attended classes in the campus of Hong Kong Design Institute (HKDI), was found in the sea near Yau Tong. Rumours immediately circulated on the internet that she had been killed by the Government for taking part in the protests even though the Police asserted that the cause of her death was not suspicious. She was last seen at HKDI on the afternoon of 19 September 2019 as CCTV footage revealed. On 15 October 2019, HKDI management acceded to demands by students to release the CCTV capturing her appearance at HKDI. Dissatisfied with subsequent partial release of the footage, some disgruntled students vandalised the school premises, damaged surveillance cameras and set off a fire alarm. HKDI had to suspend classes between 15 and 17 October 2019.¹¹³ Meanwhile, the student's mother clarified on television news that she had no suspicion over her daughter's death and pleaded for peace for the family at the time of grief.¹¹⁴ Many continued to insist that the student had been killed.¹¹⁵

4.122 On 22 September 2019, there were sporadic disturbances flared at different locations. The protesters vandalised shops like Best Mart 360 and restaurants operated by Maxim's Caterers Limited at different shopping malls. Some violent protesters also damaged the facilities inside Nam Cheong Station, West Kowloon Station, Sha Tin Station and the adjacent New Town Plaza. Some protesters took down the National Flag, stamped and splashed water on it before throwing it into Shing Mun River.¹¹⁶ In Tsing Yi, the vehicle of a Principal Government Official was besieged by protesters after he had attended an event celebrating the National Day. They threw different kinds of objects such as metal rod and rubbish bin at the vehicle, causing damage to the windscreen. The vehicle could leave only with the assistance of riot police officers.¹¹⁷ On 22 September 2019, the Police arrested 53 persons.¹¹⁸

Saturday 28 September 2019 – A March to commemorate OCM

4.123 On 28 September 2019, CHRF held an assembly with a LoNO at Tamar Park to commemorate OCM in 2014. CHRF estimated that around 200 000 to 300 000 had joined the assembly while the Police estimated around 8 440 at peak time. Some violent protesters threw petrol bombs and bricks at CGC. The Police used PAVAsolution and fired tear gas to disperse them. SCMVs were also deployed. In Mong Kok, some violent protesters threw petrol bombs at the police station.¹¹⁹ On that day, the Police used five rounds of tear gas, three rubber rounds and 13 react rounds, and arrested 11 persons.¹²⁰

Sunday 29 September 2019 - “Global Anti-Totalitarianism March”

4.124 On 29 September 2019, without applying for a LoNO, netizens organised a procession entitled “Global Anti-Totalitarianism March”, to walk from Causeway Bay to CGC. That day, the Police mobilised two SCMVs and two armoured vehicles to stand by at LOCPG and another SCMV and armoured vehicle at CGC.¹²¹

4.125 Before the march began, violent protesters occupied Hennessy Road in Causeway Bay. Scuffles broke out when they hurled bricks and petrol bombs at police officers.¹²² As a result, the Police fired tear gas and rubber rounds to disperse them. In Wan Chai, other protesters smashed the glass panel at Exit A of Wan Chai Station and threw petrol bombs and bricks into the station, causing a small fire. Another group of violent protesters blocked Fenwick Street in Wan Chai. During these events in Wan Chai, violent protesters caused damages to outlets of Café de Coral and Starbucks, which they considered be pro-Government and owned by the Maxim's Caterers Limited.¹²³

4.126 In Admiralty, violent protesters used rubbish bins and other objects to block the exits of Admiralty Station and threw a petrol bomb at Exit B. To disperse the protesters, the Police fired tear gas and rubber rounds at different locations at Harcourt Road, outside Pacific Place, Cotton Tree Drive and Leighton Road. Protesters also threw petrol bombs at CGC. In Tim Wa Avenue, they hurled bricks from a mega sling shot over the water-filled barriers into CGC. The Police protected the building with tear gas, react rounds and SCMV.¹²⁴

4.127 In the afternoon, a female Indonesian reporter was allegedly hit by a rubber round in the right eye,¹²⁵ when she was making live coverage on a footbridge in Wan Chai connecting to Immigration Tower. At the times, the Police was taking action to disperse the protesters on the footbridge and had asked everyone including reporters to leave. However, the protesters and the reporters remained there ignoring the warning of the Police. Suddenly, the Indonesian reporter was hit by something in her right eye and fell to the ground. She later became blind in her right eye and she alleged that it was caused by a rubber round. She plans to take private prosecution against the Police.¹²⁶ This matter gave protesters further reason to protest against police excessive use of force.

Highlights of October 2019

- 1 October National Day 2019 was marked by city-wide violence and unrest in a “National Grief March”. The clashes were the most ferocious, disorderly and extensive since 12 June 2019. An 18-year-old student was injured by live round fired by a police officer in Tsuen Wan. This was used on the internet to rally further protests. On that day, five warning shots were also fired in some other districts.
- Prohibition on Face Covering Regulation (Anti-mask Law) announced on 4 October 2019 sparked a series of protests starting that day. A 14-year-old boy was shot by a plainclothes police officer under attack.
- Protesters continued to use Anti-mask Law to rally violent protests throughout October, more violent ones being those on 6 October, 13 October, 20 October and 27 October 2019. Tsim Sha Tsui and Mong Kok were the common battlegrounds with scenes of arson and vandalism along Nathan Road. On 13 October 2019, a police officer was slashed on the neck by a protester in Kwun Tong. On 20 October 2019, an SCMV discharged blue-dyed water at the entrance of the Kowloon Mosque in Tsim Sha Tsui, after which the Chief Executive apologised for the incident.

THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

Tuesday 1 October 2019 – Violent Protests on the National Day

4.131 The National Day celebration on 1 October 2019 was marred by violent unrest throughout the entire city and the shooting of an 18-year-old protester in Tsuen Wan. CHRF had applied for a LoNO to launch a “National Grief March” from Causeway Bay to Central in the afternoon of National Day but the Police rejected the application. Four pan-democrats then urged the public to disregard the Police ban and take part in the march as a form of civil disobedience. Defying the Police ban, tens of thousands of protesters took to the street to join the march.¹³¹

4.132 There were online appeals mobilising people to attend protests in six districts to “celebrate” on the “Day of National Mourning”.¹³² There were also online discussions inciting protesters to confront and attack police officers.¹³³ The protesters vowed to ruin the National Day celebrations.

4.133 In anticipation of severe violence from protesters, a large number of police officers were deployed to protect the HKCEC where the celebration activities would take place and in various districts where violent protests would be held. The Police warned the public of the serious danger from some protesters’ plan for disturbances on 1 October 2019. The Police revealed that on 29 and 30 September 2019, they had arrested 22 people at multiple locations in connection with illegal assemblies and illegal possession of weapons, including materials for making petrol bombs, such as bottles of thinner, empty glass bottles, lighters, cloth strips for ignition which the Police believed were to be used in protests on 1 October 2019.

4.134 Out of safety concern, a number of major shopping malls all over Hong Kong, including IFC Mall, Sogo Department Store, Pacific Place, New Town Plaza, Telford Plaza, Yoho Mall were closed for the day. By 11:00, MTRC had closed 11 MTR stations, including Admiralty Station, Wan Chai Station, Causeway Bay Station and Prince Edward Station. As violent protests erupted in a number of districts from afternoon to midnight, MTRC eventually closed more than 40 MTR stations. Before violent protests broke out, many shops had closed and streets normally teeming with people were almost deserted.¹³⁴

4.135 Celebration activities at the HKCEC that morning went off without major incident. However, by noon, protesters wearing black outfits gathered at different locations in Causeway Bay, Wan Chai, Wong Tai Sin, Sham Shui Po, Tsuen Wan and Tuen Mun. Around 13:00, the procession in Causeway Bay started, occupying all lanes of Hennessy Road. Some participants carried a banner that read, “End the dictatorial rule. Return power to the people”. They also chanted “Fight for freedom, stand with Hong Kong”.

4.136 After 14:00, violence broke out between protesters and the Police in various districts, starting from Tuen Mun, Wong Tai Sin, Sha Tin and Sham Shui Po. Violent protesters tucked in their black T-shirts to distinguish themselves from plainclothes officers in disguise among them. They occupied roads, hurling bricks, other hard objects and petrol bombs at police officers. They set fire on a number of roads. In different locations there were huge fires. Police officers dispersed protesters with tear gas and other less-lethal weapons. Protesters were seen beating police officers with umbrellas and wooden poles in attempts to retrieve protesters subdued by police officers. In Tuen Mun, some violent protesters used corrosive liquid, injuring a number of police officers and some reporters. Very soon, violent protests spread to Mong Kok, Yau Ma Tei, Jordon and Tsim Sha Tsui.¹³⁵

4.137 On Hong Kong Island, after the march reached Admiralty, thousands of protesters occupied Harcourt Road by putting up barricades with miscellaneous objects and setting fire on the road. Violent protesters hurled petrol bombs, bricks and other hard objects at police officers. The Police fired tear gas and deployed SCMV to disperse the crowd.

4.138 There was extensive unrest across the city. Entrances of a number of MTR stations were set on fire; shops and banks connected to the Mainland were vandalised and set on fire; a mahjong parlour in Tsuen Wan was severely damaged; Cheung Sha Wan Government Offices was broken into and vandalised. Six live rounds were fired, two warning shots in Yau Ma Tei, two warning shots in Tsuen Wan, one warning shot in Wong Tai Sin and the remaining shot hit the chest of an 18-year old secondary school student in Tsuen Wan. The student was shot when together with other protesters, he attacked a police officer with weapons.¹³⁶ The incident was recorded on video and had been viewed by many citizens. The student was discharged from hospital after receiving treatment. It was the first injury caused by a live round since June 2019 and was subsequently used as propaganda to reinforce allegations of police brutality and to fuel the momentum of the protests in the following days.¹³⁷

4.139 The event that led to the firing of the two warning shots in Yau Ma Tei was recorded on video. A police vehicle was under attack by protesters. The officers got off the police vehicle but were outnumbered by the violent protesters. In order to fend off further attacks, an officer fired two warning shots. In the event, the officer suffered bleeding injuries on his head.

4.140 The clashes on 1 October 2019 were the most serious with violence and the biggest in scale since June 2019. According to the Police, violent protesters used petrol bombs, corrosive fluid, bricks, metal rods and other hard objects as weapons. On that day the Police fired 1 667 rounds of tear gas, 1 156 rubber rounds, 267 super sock rounds and 248 react rounds in addition to six live rounds. The Police arrested a total of 299 people.

Friday 4 October 2019 – Violent Protests against Anti-mask Law

4.141 On 4 October 2019, the Government invoked the Emergency Regulations Ordinance to impose the Anti-mask Law banning facial covering during protests. Prior to the Chief Executive's announcement at 15:00, there were online appeals calling for people to attend an unapproved assembly at Chater Garden in Central to voice against the legislation at 12:30. Thousands of office workers turned out at Chater Garden. They later occupied the west-bound lanes of Des Voeux Road Central and the east-bound lanes of Connaught Road Central near International Finance Centre, blocking the traffic there.¹³⁸

4.142 Before 4 October 2019, there had been rumours about the Anti-mask Law and discussions in the community over whether the Chief Executive should enact the Anti-mask Law. On 3 October 2019, protesters turned up at 11 shopping malls throughout the territory to oppose the new law. In the evening, clashes between violent protesters and the Police broke out at Citiplaza in Tai Koo Shing.¹³⁹

4.143 Soon after the announcement on 4 October 2019, there were online petitions for protesters to defy the new law, which was regarded by the netizens as a means of totalitarian rule and suppression of the protests.¹⁴⁰ Opposition to the Anti-mask Law became the theme for subsequent protests in October 2019 and protest slogans became more radical. The widely-used slogan of “香港人，加油” (Translation: Hongkongers, add oil) in previous protests evolved to “香港人，反抗” (Translation: Hongkongers, resist).¹⁴¹ The demand of “追究警暴” (Translation: Investigate into police brutality) further turned into “解散警隊” (Translation: Disband the Police Force).

4.144 Following the Chief Executive’s announcement of the new law at 15:00, several universities cancelled afternoon classes and many businesses and malls also closed early. Around 16:30, hundreds of protesters, many of them office workers in suits and students in school uniform, gathered in Central. The protesters built barricades on Man Yiu Street outside the Hong Kong Station to stop traffic on Connaught Road Central and Des Voeux Road Central. They burned the National Flag and a red banner with words celebrating for the National Day on the footbridge connecting Jardine House and Chater House.¹⁴²

4.145 In the evening, violent protests spread across the city, causing traffic chaos. Many protesters wore masks in defiance of the new law. They chanted “Hongkongers, resist” and “蒙面無罪 立法無理” (Translation: No crime to cover our face, no reason to enact the law) and occupied several major roads, including Harcourt Road and Hennessey Road on Hong Kong side, Nathan Road and Lung Cheung Road in Kowloon. Violent protesters also set up barricades to block the entrance of the Cross-Harbour Tunnel.¹⁴³ They vandalised and set fire on shops and bank branches linked to the Mainland and damaged some MTR stations. Some even set fire on the railroad tracks at Kowloon Tong Station while others hurled petrol bombs onto a train at Sha Tin Station.¹⁴⁴ Because of the violent acts of the protesters, and the damages to a number of MTR stations, MTRC suspended train services completely and closed all MTR stations at 22:30. Earlier around 22:00, the Police had carried out dispersal action in various districts including Causeway Bay, Wong Tai Sin and Tuen Mun, after which the mobs gradually disappeared. MTRC would re-open only half of the MTR stations on 6 October 2019.

4.146 Late night of 4 October 2019, another incident of firing one live round occurred, in Yuen Long at around 23:00. A plainclothes police officer was attacked from behind and was swamped by protesters knocking him to the ground and beating him. He pulled out his pistol and gunshot was heard amidst the chaos, whereupon the assailants immediately dispersed. At once, someone threw a petrol bomb at him and his trousers caught fire. The officer dropped his gun when he tried to put out the fire on his person. Someone attempted to pick up the gun but the officer managed to retrieve it. A 14 year-old boy was shot in his left thigh by that live round.¹⁴⁵

4.147 On 4 October 2019, according to the Police, violent protesters attacked the officers with petrol bombs, bricks and other hard objects. The Police fired 271 rounds of tear gas, 157 rubber rounds, 30 super sock rounds and 26 react rounds, in addition to the live round fired by the plainclothes officer in Yuen Long. The Police arrested 13 people on that day.

Sunday 6 October 2019 – Violent Protests after Enactment of Anti-mask Law

4.148 Prior to 6 October 2019, there were online appeals for people to take part in two unauthorised protests to be held on Hong Kong Island and in Kowloon on the afternoon of 6 October 2019 to oppose to the Anti-mask Law.¹⁴⁶

4.149 When the protesters marched on the streets, they wore masks in defiance of the new law. The marches subsequently turned chaotic and clashes with the Police flared up at different locations. Protesters blocked roads in Wan Chai, Admiralty, Sham Shui Po and Prince Edward, throwing bricks onto streets, hurling petrol bombs and vandalising shops with links to the Mainland.¹⁴⁷ Around 17:00, the Police fired tear gas to clear the crowds in Wan Chai and Admiralty.¹⁴⁸ At around 17:30 in Sham Shui Po, a taxi under attack by some protesters, rammed into a crowd and severely injured a female protester. Some protesters dragged the driver out from the taxi, to be immediately surrounded by a large crowd and badly beaten.¹⁴⁹

4.150 On 6 October 2019, the Police fired 156 rounds of tear gas, 69 rubber rounds, three super sock rounds and five react rounds. The Police arrested 121 people that day.

Protests from Monday 7 October to Saturday 12 October 2019

4.151 During a protest on 7 October 2019, violent protesters had sporadic confrontation with the Police at various locations in Mong Kok, Tai Po, Ma On Shan and Tseung Kwan O.

The Police responded with tear gas and less-lethal weapons.¹⁵⁰ On 10 October 2019, protesters wearing masks in defiance of the Anti-mask Law gathered outside Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station on the “World Sight Day” in support of the woman who suffered eye injury in the protest on 11 August 2019.¹⁵¹ On 12 October 2019, over a thousand took part in an unauthorised but largely peaceful march from Tsim Sha Tsui to Sham Shui Po to protest against the Anti-mask Law.¹⁵²

Sunday 13 October 2019 – Territory-wide Protests in Shopping Malls

4.152 Prior to 13 October 2019, there were online appeals mobilising people to deploy a strategy of popping up in small groups to protest in major shopping centres in different districts including Central, Mong Kok, Kowloon Bay, Kwun Tong, Tseung Kwan O, Tsuen Wan and Sha Tin.¹⁵³ To avoid being arrested, they were advised to “Be Water”, to move quickly from one location to another and to contemplate an escape route at each new location.¹⁵⁴

4.153 Starting from 13:00, violent protesters vandalised and sprayed graffiti at MTR stations, shops and bank branches that had links to the Mainland inside the shopping malls they visited. Later on, they took to the streets to continue to cause damage and set fire at various spots. Scenes of vandalism were ubiquitous in shopping malls and on streets in many districts.¹⁵⁵ A total of 27 MTR stations, including Wong Tai Sin Station, Cheung Sha Wan Station and Tseung Kwan O Station, were forced to close. All service on the Tsuen Wan MTR line were suspended. Violent protesters also caused damages to Cheung Sha Wan Government Offices, Tai Po Government Offices and the offices of some pro-Government LegCo Members. They blocked roads, sabotaged the traffic lights and set objects on fire. The violent protesters moved swiftly to other locations before Police arrival.

4.154 Police officers were targets of attack when they took action in the late afternoon, especially in the course of their making arrests. In Tseung Kwan O, two plainclothes police officers were assaulted by a protester after being found out that they were police officers. At Kwun Tong Station, a police officer was slashed on the neck by an 18-year old student, sustaining a five centimetre cut wound close to the carotid artery. He was with his team on their way to handle a case of “Criminal Damage” there. The assailant was arrested at the scene and charged with wounding the police officer.^{156, 157}

4.155 At 21:00, a homemade bomb by remote controlled placed in a roadside flower bed on Nathan Road in Mong Kok exploded soon after a police vehicle drove past. The police officers were nearby clearing road blocks set up by the protesters. Luckily, there was no casualty.

4.156 13 October 2019 was another day of anarchy, chaos and violence in the entire city. Apparently with the flash-mob strategy for protesters to act in small groups and to leave very quickly, the Police only fired two rounds of tear gas, seven rubber rounds, 24 super sock rounds and six react rounds. Significant number of people, 178, were arrested.

Protests from Monday 14 October to Saturday 19 October 2019

4.157 On 14 October 2019, an assembly was held at night in Chater Garden, the first protest with LoNO since the Anti-mask Law came into force. Thousands of protesters called for the US to enact the “Hong Kong Human Rights and Democracy Act”. The organiser claimed that more than 130 000 had taken part in the rally, while the Police estimated 25 000 at the peak.¹⁵⁸ On 18 October 2019, protesters formed human chains across the city in major areas such as Tsuen Wan, Sha Tin, Tai Wai, Causeway Bay, chanting slogan “五大訴求 缺一不可” (Translation: Five demands, not one less).¹⁵⁹

Sunday 20 October 2019 – Violent Protests in Kowloon

4.158 Despite the Police refusal of CHRF’s application for launching a march in the afternoon of 20 October 2019 from Tsim Sha Tsui to the West Kowloon Station to protest against the Anti-mask Law and to condemn police brutality, CHRF went ahead with the procession.¹⁶⁰ After the event, CHRF declared that 350 000 had taken part.

4.159 During the event, many protesters digressed to Nathan Road in Tsim Sha Tsui then along Nathan Road to Prince Edward and even further to Sham Shui Po, some violent protesters continued to target MTR stations, shops connected with the Mainland or having ties with Fujianese community. When some violent protesters committed acts of criminal damage, other protesters would open umbrellas to block the view from outside and shield individual from being identified. They spray-painted, vandalised and threw petrol bombs into Mong Kok Station, Yau Ma Tei Station and Austin Station. MTR stations between Tsim Sha Tsui and Prince Edward were closed after 16:00. Branches of Mainland-owned banks were not spared.

A news footage captured some violent protesters breaking into a branch of the Bank of China and throwing a petrol bomb into it. For unknown reasons, however, some violent protesters damaged a branch of the Bank of East Asia, after which someone spray-painted an apology on the glass panel, "Sorry, wrong bank." Protesters surrounded Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station and hurled petrol bombs inside. Later, they surrounded Mong Kok Police Station. Police officers fired tear gas at the violent protesters from within.¹⁶¹

4.160 Around 15:15, the Police took action in response to the riotous acts of the violent protesters. Tear gas and other less-lethal weapons were fired. Around 16:10, an SCMV was deployed to clear the violent protesters along Nathan Road from Tsim Sha Tsui to Mong Kok. When the SCMV drove past the Kowloon Mosque in Tsim Sha Tsui, it sprayed blue-dyed water at the gates of the Mosque and a group of people including a former President of the Indian Association of Hong Kong and a pan-democratic LegCo Member there.¹⁶² The Police issued a statement to apologise for the incident, explaining that the mosque was not a target in the operation. The Chief Executive later also apologised to the Muslim community.¹⁶³

4.161 Following the enforcement action by the riot police officers and the SCMV, protesters went to Mong Kok and Prince Edward, later that evening to become a major battlefield. An additional SCMV was deployed for dispersal. Around 19:00, riot officers advanced down Nathan Road. The two SCMVs together with an armoured vehicle crashed through the road blocks set up by protesters. When violent protesters hurled bricks and petrol bombs at them, the police officers fired tear gas and rubber rounds in response. The turmoil lasted until midnight when most of the protesters in Mong Kok had dispersed.

4.162 On 20 October 2019, according to the Police, violent protesters used petrol bombs, bricks, sling shots and other hard objects to attack the officers. The Police fired 266 rounds of

Protests from Monday 21 October to Saturday 26 October 2019

4.163 On 24 October 2019, a rally was launched to support protesters in Catalonia, Spain. The approved assembly was attended by 3 000 people according to the organiser and the Police counted 550 at the peak.¹⁶⁴ On 26 October 2019, hundreds of medical professionals gathered in a park in Central to protest against alleged police violence against protesters, and the arrest of medical professionals working in the frontline of the protests.¹⁶⁵

Sunday 27 October 2019 – Rally in Tsim Sha Tsui

4.164 Around 15:00 on Sunday 27 October 2019, hundreds of protesters gathered at Salisbury Garden outside the Space Museum and the Cultural Centre in Tsim Sha Tsui to protest against police brutality and the spraying of blue-dyed water onto Kowloon Mosque in the dispersal operation on 20 October 2019. Prior to 27 October 2019, there were online messages appealing people to take part in the protest.¹⁶⁶ At the time of the event, police officers stood on guard at the location. Many protesters wore masks in defiance of the Anti-mask Law.

4.165 Around 15:40, clashes broke out between some violent protesters and the police officers there. News footage showed that the protesters hit some police officers with their umbrellas and the police officers fought back with batons. Shortly afterwards, the Police used pepper spray and tear gas to disperse the violent protesters. Some of protesters went into the Peninsula Hotel on Salisbury Road.¹⁶⁷

4.166 Some protesters moved to Nathan Road towards Mong Kok and others left in the direction of Chatham Road. Again, along the way they vandalised MTR stations, shops and bank branches connected to the Mainland or the Fujianese community. They blocked roads and set fire at different locations. When they went to Sham Shui Po later in the evening, they also hurled petrol bombs at Sham Shui Po Police Station and Cheung Sha Wan Government Offices.¹⁶⁸ Mong Kok Police Station was as usual the target of attack. The Police deployed an SCMV to Tsim Sha Tsui and Mong Kong area to disperse the crowds. Around 19:00, violent protesters set up barricades at the junction of Argyle Street and Nathan Road, the usual battleground. Police officers fired tear gas and other less-lethal weapons for dispersal.¹⁶⁹

4.167 In Mong Kok, a group of police officers were unable to defend themselves from the attack of some violent protesters. They had to retreat into an MTR station and closed the gate before firing tear gas from behind the iron grille to disperse the protesters pursuing them. In Yau Ma Tei, violent protesters attacked a man with hammers, believing that he was an undercover officer. The man sustained bleeding injuries on his head. In Hung Hom, a rubbish bin was hurled onto the railway track, disrupting the train service to Lo Wu.

4.168 On 27 October 2019, the Police fired 135 rounds of tear gas, 34 rubber rounds, 20 super sock rounds and six react rounds. 129 people were arrested on that day. The clashes in October 2019, in particular those on 1 October 2019, were the most violent compared with those in the preceding months. In October 2019, the Police fired a total of 2 848 rounds of tear gas, 1 625 rubber rounds, 386 super sock rounds, 350 react rounds and seven live rounds with two persons shot. The Police made a total of 1 189 arrests. However, these figures reflecting the severity of the clashes were all dwarfed by those in November 2019, the peak of the protest activities.

Highlights of November 2019

- Protests continued to escalate in violence. Lobby of Xinhua News Agency was set on fire, suspected explosives found in Causeway Bay and petrol bombs manufacturing centre uncovered.
- Doxxing of police officers and their family members intensified with criminal acts to cause nuisance and intimidation to the police officers and their families.
- A student from The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (HKUST) falling to his death from a height gave protesters claims to escalate their violent protests.
- Violent protesters paralysed the entire city traffic network for five consecutive days to stop Hong Kong citizens from going to work and to schools so as to make them virtually participants in city-wide strikes.
- Violence continued to escalate, reaching a climax with the clashes at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University (PolyU) on 17 and 18 November, with the use of a record high number of police weapons and number of arrests.
- The Police fired eight live rounds, hitting one protester in Sai Wan Ho.
- A man chastising a group of masked protesters who had vandalised an MTR Station was set on fire.
- A 70-year old male cleaning worker was fatally hit in the head by a brick hurled from a group believed to be violent protesters in the midst of confrontation between the protesters and a group of local residents.

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM
THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.169 November 2019 is the month with the most ferocious confrontation featuring the following major clashes:

- Protests on Hong Kong Island and in Kowloon on 2 November 2019;
- Territory-wide strikes and protests over five consecutive days from 11 to 15 November 2019, each day given a separate “action” name by the protesters;
- Violent clashes with hold-up at CUHK and in its vicinity over the Tolo Highway on 12 and 13 November 2019 coinciding with the territory-wide protests on these two days; and
- Violent clashes at PolyU and over the surrounding area on 17 and 18 November 2019.

4.170 The clashes outside CUHK and PolyU were war-like combat. Cross Harbour Tunnel outside PolyU, Tolo Highway outside CUHK and other major roads were blocked, effectively paralysing the traffic throughout Hong Kong.

4.171 In November 2019, the Police used a total of 9 597 rounds of tear gas (59.3% of the total), 7 479 rubber rounds (74.2% of the total), 1 425 super sock rounds (70.1% of the total), 1 104 react rounds (58.7% of the total), and eight live rounds (42.1% of the total), and arrested 2 899 persons (38.1% of the total). Figures for the clashes cited are given in the table below:

| Date | Use of Police Weapons | | | | No. of Arrests |
|--------|-----------------------|---------------|-------------------|--------------|----------------|
| | Tear Gas | Rubber Rounds | Super Sock Rounds | React Rounds | |
| 2 Nov | 409 | 132 | 20 | 18 | 263 |

Saturday 2 November 2019 – Territory-wide Violent Protests

4.172 Starting from late October 2019, messages circulating on the internet called for “Punishing the Police by our means” if the Government did not set up an Independent Commission of Inquiry to investigate into alleged police brutality.

4.173 On 18 October 2019, a political activist applied for a LoNO to launch an assembly entitled “Fight for Autonomy; Stand with Hong Kong” at Victoria Park on 2 November 2019. The Police turned down this application but allowed two other assemblies to be held in Central the same day.¹⁷¹ As a result, there was discussion on the internet about circumventing Police disapproval of the assembly at Victoria Park calling for people participating in “election meetings”, which netizens claimed not requiring Police approval, at Victoria Park on 2 November 2019 and then joining the approved assemblies in Central.

4.174 In the afternoon of 2 November 2019, 128 pro-democracy District Council election candidates organised “election meetings” at Victoria Park to substitute the rally prohibited by the Police. Thousands of people gathered at Victoria Park and its vicinity. That afternoon, the Police found 188 petrol bombs in a flat in Wan Chai and arrested five persons.¹⁷²

4.175 Some violent protesters blocked roads outside Victoria Park and set up barricades at an entrance to the Park. The Police fired tear gas to disperse the protesters.¹⁷³ The violent protesters left Victoria Park in the direction of Wan Chai. Along the way, they caused damages to their usual targets of MTR stations, shops and bank branches that were connected to the Mainland or the Fujianese community. They blocked roads, hurled petrol bombs and set fire at various locations. The Police used tear gas and deployed an SCMV for dispersal.¹⁷⁴

4.176 In view of the breach of the peace in Causeway Bay and Wan Chai, the Police asked the organisers of the two approved assemblies in Central to conclude earlier and the participants to leave the venues.¹⁷⁵

4.177 From the late afternoon till the evening, violent clashes took place at different locations from Causeway Bay to Sheung Wan. In addition to usual illegal acts to cause damages, they smashed the glass doors of the office of Xinhua News Agency in Wan Chai and set the lobby on fire. Suspected explosives were found in Causeway Bay and detonated by a bomb disposal robot.¹⁷⁶

4.178 In Kowloon, some violent protesters blocked Nathan Road and hurled petrol bombs at police officers. The violent protesters set up road blocks and set fires along Nathan Road to Mong Kok where some of them beat a man for taking pictures of them. The Police dispersed them with tear gas and other less-lethal weapons. The violent clashes in Mong Kok continued into the small hours of 3 November 2019.¹⁷⁷ On 2 November 2019, the Police fired 409 rounds of tear gas, 132 rubber rounds, 20 super sock rounds, 18 react rounds, and arrested 262 persons.¹⁷⁸

Sunday 3 November- Friday 8 November 2019 – Protests Related to the Death of an HKUST Student

4.179 On 3 November 2019, “Street Wandering” protests were organised in seven districts throughout Hong Kong where violent clashes eventually took place. In Tai Koo, part of the ear of a pro-democracy District Councillor was bitten off during a scuffle between two parties with opposing views.¹⁷⁹

4.180 According to media reports, some protesters, by means of doxxing, knew a police officer's wedding banquet in Tseung Kwan O would be held on 3 November 2019. They called for people to make trouble at the event. That night, a crowd gathered near the banquet venue shouting and yelling to cause nuisance and police officers came to the scene. Subsequently, some violent protesters took to the streets in the vicinity, set up roadblocks and threw objects from a height. The Police fired tear gas to disperse them.¹⁸⁰ In the small hours of 4 November 2019, while police officers were clearing violent protesters from the streets, an HKUST student fell from the third to the second floor at a nearby carpark in Sheung Tak Estate, suffering fatal injuries. He died on 8 November 2019.¹⁸¹

4.181 On the internet, there were speculations about the cause of the student's death. Questions were raised about whether police officers were inside the carpark at that time, and whether any police officers were involved in the incident. The President of HKUST issued an open letter calling for an independent inquiry into the student's death, in particular the delay of 20 minutes in rescue as an ambulance had seemingly been blocked by police vehicles.¹⁸² FSD confirmed that the ambulance sent to the incident spot was blocked by buses and private cars but not police vehicles.¹⁸³ The CCTV footage released by LINK to the public showing that no policeman was on the floor from which the HKUST student fell. The student's death is under Police investigation heading for a death inquiry.

4.182 The death incident further fuelled protesters' hatred for the Police. Protests were held on 8 November 2019 in various districts, calling for vengeance. That night, thousands of mourners came with flowers and origami to that carpark in memory of the student. Meanwhile, violent protesters began clashing with the Police in Causeway Bay, Yau Ma Tei, Mong Kok, Tuen Mun and other districts.¹⁸⁴ In Mong Kok, a police officer fired a warning shot to save himself from protesters ferociously attacking him and his colleagues with bricks.¹⁸⁵

Sunday 10 November 2019 – Clashes at Shopping Malls

4.184 On 10 November 2019, protesters gathered in various major shopping malls in Hong Kong including New Town Plaza in Sha Tin, and Festival Walk in Kowloon Tong, responding to online calls to “go shopping”. Some violent protesters vandalised shops inside the malls, including those owned by Maxim’s Caterers Limited. Clashes ensued when the Police took enforcement action inside the malls using batons, OC Foam¹⁸⁷ and pepper balls.¹⁸⁸ There were also clashes in Tsuen Wan, Tuen Mun, Mong Kok, Tai Po, Sheung Shui, Tin Shui Wai, and Tseung Kwan O.¹⁸⁹

11-15 November 2019 – Territory-wide General Strikes

4.185 Violent protesters launched territory-wide general strikes between 11 and 15 November 2019, each day was given a title:¹⁹⁰

- “黎明行動” (Dawn Action) on 11 November 2019;
- “破曉行動” (Daybreak Action) on 12 November 2019;
- “晨曦行動” (Dagian Action) on 13 November 2019;

4.186 The violent protesters adopted urban guerrilla tactics, aiming at paralysing the traffic networks in the entire city by blocking major roads and disrupting MTR services. There were online posts appealing to “peaceful protesters” to participate in the disruptive activities by way of dropping objects on the roads and the railways, crossing roads in a snail pace and taking out Octopus cards slowly to create congestion at the ticket gates of MTR stations.

4.188 Early each morning from 11 to 15 November 2019, violent protesters set up barricades on the roads, one after another, to disrupt traffic in all 18 districts in Hong Kong. Tolo Highway running past CUHK, Waterloo Road, Junction Road and Cornwall Street in the vicinity of HKBU and City University of Hong Kong (CityU), Pokfulam Road by the side of The University of Hong Kong (HKU), Nathan Road and Kings Road were blocked intermittently between 11 and 16 November 2019. Train service between Fo Tan and Tai Po Market Station on the MTR East Rail Line was suspended from 13 to 16 November 2019 due to damage to rail facilities.¹⁹¹ Cross Harbour Tunnel by the side of PolyU was closed intermittently from 11 to 13 November 2019 and then for two straight weeks from 14 to 27 November 2019 due to damage to the toll booths, which had been set ablaze by violent protesters.¹⁹² The University Station next to CUHK was reopened only on 21 December

2019.¹⁹³ At MTR stations, violent protesters stood at train doors to keep them from closing so that the train could not leave the MTR station. As a result, rail service of the entire MTR line was disrupted. They also blocked MTR exits and ticket gates to prevent people from using the MTR stations. Owing to the traffic disruption, many could not go to work or took a very long time to go to their workplaces.¹⁹⁴ All classes at kindergartens, primary schools and secondary schools were suspended from 14 to 19 November 2019.¹⁹⁵

4.189 In the morning of 11 November 2019, as a traffic police officer cleared objects from a road junction in Sai Wan Ho, several violent protesters confronted him. In the struggle that ensued, the traffic police officer fired three live rounds, one of which hit one of the violent protesters.¹⁹⁶ That injured violent protester was subsequently arrested. On the same day, in Kwai Fong, a police officer riding a police motorcycle charged into a crowd of protesters in a zig-zag manner. The officer was suspended from frontline duties and took leave instantly following the incident.¹⁹⁷

4.190 People affected by or objecting to the unruly behaviours of the protesters disputed with them and urging them not to block roads and train doors. At times, the disputes turned violent. On 11 November 2019, a violent protester poured gasoline on a man and set him on fire after he chastised a group of masked protesters vandalising Ma On Shan MTR Station. The man suffered second degree burns on 28% of his body.¹⁹⁸ On 13 November 2019, a 70-year old cleaning worker was hit on the head by a brick hurled from a group believed to be violent protesters in the midst of a confrontation between the violent protesters and a group of local residents. The man died on 14 November 2019.¹⁹⁹

4.191 While general strikes were taking place, some protesters began to occupy the campuses of HKU, CUHK, PolyU, CityU and HKBU, blocking the major roads in their vicinity. The occupation of CUHK on 12 and 13 November 2019 and PolyU on 17 and 18 November 2019 saw the most violent clashes between protesters and the Police. On the internet, netizens' opinion differed whether the protesters should hold fort at university campuses. Some championed geographically strategic locations of some of the campuses, some considered occupying universities to have symbolic significance, while others thought urban guerrilla tactics to be more effective.

12 - 13 November 2019 – Violent Clashes at CUHK

4.192 Starting from 11 November 2019, violent protesters at CUHK blocked Tai Po Road outside CUHK and threw objects from Bridge No. 2, which spanned over Tolo Highway to the Science Park, and the East Rail Line railroad track, to block the two major traffic lines. The violent protesters also put objects on Bridge No. 2 to stop the Police from advancing into CUHK. They hurled bricks and petrol bombs at police officers when the latter attempted to clear the objects that blocked Tolo Highway and the East Rail Line. The Police fired tear gas and other less-lethal weapons in attempts to get into CUHK and to disperse the protesters. It was the first time the Police fired tear gas into university campuses.²⁰⁰

4.193 There was a long standoff at Bridge No. 2 interspersed with sporadic clashes. The atmosphere intensified in the evening after various failed attempts by university management to mediate between the protesters and the Police.²⁰¹

4.194 At 22:00, the Police deployed an SCMV, but the violent protesters threw petrol bombs to stop the SCMV from advancing. After a while, the Police retreated from the campus to the far end of Bridge No. 2 in order not to escalate the situation.²⁰²

4.195 The violent clashes at CUHK attracted widespread public attention. On the internet, there were calls for people to protect CUHK, provide supplies to the protesters there, and send cars to take protesters away. To divert Police attention and resources from CUHK, some internet messages asked people to create conflicts in other districts, particularly in Tai Po and Sha Tin, by blocking roads, vandalising shopping malls and public infrastructure, and attacking police stations. At 20:00 on 12 November 2019, violent protesters broke into Festival Walk in Kowloon Tong and caused massive damage to the shopping mall for six hours, shattering all the glass panels on the railings and main entrances and burning down a Christmas tree four-storey high. There were also violent clashes in many districts, including Causeway Bay, Central, Kowloon Tong, Mong Kok, Sai Wan Ho, Tai Po, Tin Shui Wai, Tseung Kwan O and Tuen Mun, throughout Hong Kong.²⁰³

4.196 On the 13 and 14 November 2019, the violent protesters continued to occupy CUHK, especially Bridge No. 2, and set up barricades with bricks, large rubbish bins, tables and chairs at the major entrances of the university.²⁰⁴ At 03:00 on 15 November 2019, three masked protesters at CUHK held a press conference indicating their intention to reopen one lane in each direction of the Tolo Highway as a gesture of good faith. They demanded that the Government hold the 2019 Hong Kong District Council elections as scheduled on 24 November 2019, release all the people arrested in the protests and establish an Independent Commission of Inquiry within 24 hours.²⁰⁵ Nevertheless, CUHK Students' Union questioned the plan to open Tolo Highway although they respected the wishes of "the frontline protesters".²⁰⁶ Protesters gradually left CUHK campus in the evening of 15 November 2019. Tolo Highway was reopened at noon on 16 November 2019.

4.197 On 15 November 2019, the Vice-Chancellor of CUHK issued a statement suggesting that many of the masked protesters were not CUHK students. He said that the masked protesters had set fires in the campus, removed bricks from pavements, stole vehicles, broke into academic buildings and hostels, and damaged many university facilities. These people also had brought into CUHK materials and supplies from outside to assemble a large number of petrol bombs. Some CUHK laboratories had been broken into, and various hazardous and highly inflammable chemicals had been found missing. He regretted that the university had become a base for illegal activities that threatened public safety.²⁰⁷ According to a media report, more than 8 000 petrol bombs were found inside CUHK.²⁰⁸

17 - 29 November 2019 – Violent Clashes outside PolyU and Aftermath

4.199 On 12 November 2019, the second day of the five-day General Strike, violent protesters dropped different objects from the footbridge above the toll booths of the Cross Harbour Tunnel to block the entrance of the tunnel. The Police used tear gas for dispersal.²¹⁰

4.200 On 13 November 2019, some violent protesters started to occupy PolyU. PolyU management urged all staff and students not to return to the university. That late evening, some violent protesters threw petrol bombs at some of toll booths of the tunnel to set them on fire. The tension at PolyU started building up from 13 November 2019 onwards with intermittent clashes between the violent protesters occupying PolyU and the Police during dispersal action, culminating in the violent clashes on 17 and 18 November 2019.²¹¹

4.201 As the situation at CUHK began to ease off, the violent protesters at PolyU set up barricades to block all accesses to PolyU in order to hold fort there. They put a large quantity of miscellaneous objects on the footbridges connecting to Hung Hom Station and Tsim Sha Tsui East, the flyover going to the Hong Kong Coliseum and the area surrounding PolyU to block access to the campus. At each of the barricades, they put up a wall of opened umbrellas to block the Police from viewing of their action behind the umbrellas and to shield themselves from projectiles fired by the Police and water discharged by SCMV. At the road junction of Chatham Road and Austin Road, later one of the major battlefields between the violent protesters and the Police, they scattered bricks, rocks and other objects over a large area to obstruct police vehicles and police officers from approaching PolyU from that direction. They threw bricks at innocent citizens who tried to remove the objects from the junction to the pavement. Violent protesters equipped with bows and arrows, wooden poles, sling shots and petrol bombs stood guard at various vantage points on the edge of PolyU, ready to tackle the Police. Some violent protesters practised hurling petrol bombs at the swimming pool of the university while others produced petrol bombs inside the campus. Yet others took chemicals from the laboratories to make weapons.²¹²

4.202 On 17 and 18 November 2019, the Police attempted to get into PolyU via the junction of Chatham Road South and Austin Road and the flyover connecting Hong Kong Coliseum but were met with brutal resistance from the violent protesters who threw petrol bombs, bricks and other objects at the advancing police officers.²¹³ The violent protesters also used large sling shots and catapults to launch petrol bombs and hard objects at police officers. The Police fired multiple rounds of tear gas and less-lethal weapons and deployed armoured vehicles and SCMV's to discharge water at the violent protesters behind the barricades and the wall of opened umbrellas. Innumerable petrol bombs and bricks were hurled by the violent protesters and numerous rounds of tear gas and other projectile rounds were fired by the Police. A police armoured vehicle was hit by petrol bombs and caught fire when it tried to advance on the flyover from the direction of Hong Kong Coliseum. So did an SCMV and another armoured vehicle at the junction of Chatham Road South. Fires were everywhere. The whole place was literally a horrifying battlefield. The scenes were disturbing and saddening. A police officer responsible for media liaison work was shot outside PolyU in his left calf by an arrow which almost went right through the muscle with the tip of the arrow bulging out on the other end under the skin.²¹⁴

4.203 Similar to the clashes at CUHK, protesters began to adopt urban guerrilla tactics with a view to diverting police attention from PolyU and stretching police resources in order to rescue the protesters in PolyU. On 17 and 18 November 2019, violent clashes broke out in areas near PolyU, including Hung Hom, Tsim Sha Tsui, Jordan, Yau Ma Tei, and Mong Kok.²¹⁵ The Police fired four live rounds over these two nights. At about 21:49 on 17 November 2019, a private vehicle was driven towards a uniformed officer whilst he was forming a police cordon line at Austin Road, Tsim Sha Tsui. In order to protect that officer, another officer fired one shot at the driver. The shot hit the windscreen of the vehicle but missed the driver. The vehicle did not stop. In the small hours of 18 November 2019 on Nathan Road in Jordan, whilst a group of officers were escorting a female arrested person to an ambulance, some violent protesters ferociously threw hard objects at them. An officer fired two warning shots to protect themselves. As the protesters further attacked officers with petrol bombs, the officer fired a third round at the protesters. The three live rounds did not hit any protester.²¹⁶

4.204 After multiple unsuccessful attempts to disperse the violent protesters, the Police decided to adopt a strategy of containment, thus avoiding casualties from direct confrontation. It was estimated that a few hundred people were inside PolyU and the Police asked them to leave via Block Y of Lee Shau Kee Building. From that day onwards until 28 November 2019, many protesters did leave at different times. The Police made arrest as they came out.²¹⁷ Some of those arrested included three who claimed themselves to be student reporters and 12 who said they were medical professionals but none could provide proof of their identity.²¹⁸ Thereafter, a photo showing a group wearing reflective vests identifying themselves as doctors, nurses and first aiders sitting on the ground with their hands zip-tied behind their backs was widely circulated. Some medical professionals expressed concern over police's handling of the group.²¹⁹ Some of the protesters tried to escape from PolyU by different means. Some dangerously zip-lined down a footbridge whereas some others crawled through the sewage pipes.²²⁰ The standoff lasted until 28 November 2019 when the Police decided to search PolyU those still remaining inside and to clear the campus of dangerous materials, such as petrol bombs and the materials for such bombs, other offensive weapons and hazardous chemicals taken from the PolyU laboratories. The Police and FSD found 3 989 petrol bombs, 1 339 explosive items, 601 bottles of corrosive liquid, and 573 items of offensive weapons including 12 bows, 200 arrows and an air rifle.²²¹

4.205 On 29 November 2019, the Police lifted the cordon around PolyU. Upon inspection, many facilities of the university were seriously damaged and graffiti was everywhere. The gymnasium was full of yoga mats, clothes and shoes. Rotten food was found inside the canteen emitting a foul odour. The entrances were scarred with signs of violent clashes.²²²

4.206 The figures on the weapons used and the arrests made by the Police on 17 and 18 November 2019 are given in the following table:

4.207 Between 19 and 28 November 2019, the Police further arrested 312 people.

24 November 2019 - District Council Election

4.208 Despite speculations that the District Council Election would be postponed, the election was held peacefully on 24 November 2019. The pan-democratic camp won 85% of the contested seats. The intensity of the protests generally dropped following the election.

Highlights of December 2019

- Protesters returned to the streets after a peaceful week on 1 December 2019. Shops were vandalised and petrol bombs were thrown at Cross Harbour Tunnel. A man, while voluntarily clearing barricades alone in Mong Kok, was attacked by a masked man with drain cover in early hours of 1 December. He suffered serious head injury as a result.
- First approved procession organised by CHRF since August 2019. Arson and vandalism resurfaced. It was the first time the Judiciary became a target in the protests.
- Two bomb plots foiled in a week.
- Violence broke out in shopping malls in various districts. Protesters disrupted the business of shops deemed to hold opposite views.
- On three consecutive days during the Christmas period, violence again broke out in shopping malls in various districts. The highest intensity of violence was witnessed on Christmas Eve, with protesters setting fire inside a branch of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation (HSBC) in Mong Kok and also the Mong Kok Station.

- Protesters commemorated the Prince Edward Station Incident by putting flowers outside Prince Edward Station.

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.209 In December 2019, the level of violence of the protesters and the use of force by the Police fell sharply from the peak in November 2019. The arrest of hundreds of violent protesters in November 2019 during the siege of PolyU and the landslide victory of the pro-democracy camp in the District Council Election could be the reasons for the decline in violence. While public meetings and processions were still held in December 2019, episodes of “Lunch with You” and “shopping with you” gain prevalence this month. Shopping malls have become regular protest venues. In December 2019, the Police used a total of 166 rounds of tear gas, 66 rubber rounds, 27 super sock rounds, and ten react rounds, and arrested 698 persons.²²⁴ 49 officers were injured compared to 119 and 101 in the previous months.

Sunday 1 December 2019 - Clashes in Whampoa after Procession in Tsim Sha Tsui

4.210 1 December 2019 was the first Sunday after the landslide victory of the pan-democratic camp in the District Council Election. After a week of relative calm, three approved public meetings and processions were held on 1 December 2019.²²⁵ The turnouts for the two events in Central were relatively small, while the procession started in Tsim Sha Tsui entitled “毋忘初心大遊行” (Translation: Forget not our Objective) attracted around 380 000 participants, according to the organiser.²²⁶ The Police estimated 16 000 at the peak. The procession was apparently intended to remind people the fight was not yet over despite a landslide victory in the District Council Election.

(Image source: LIHKG)

4.211 The procession in Tsim Sha Tsui started peacefully with tens of thousands of people gathering at the clock tower to march to the Hong Kong Coliseum in Hung Hom chanting "Five demands, not one less" and other slogans. However, an hour later, a large number of protesters deviated from the designated route. A group of protesters set off smoke bombs which prompted the Police to fire tear gas into the densely packed assembly of participants. Some protesters threw objects at police officers in return. The procession later proceeded to Hung Hom Bypass where some protesters dropped bricks and glass bottles on the officers under the bridge. As repeated warnings were ignored, the Police proceeded to use OC Foam, batons, tear gas, rubber rounds, super socks rounds and pepper balls to disperse them.²²⁷

4.212 In the evening, clashes erupted between violent protesters and the Police in Whampoa next to the designated destination of the procession. Apart from smashing shops which were deemed by the protesters to be holding opposing political view, traffic lights were also vandalised.²²⁸ Fire were set at the entrance of Whampao Station. Protesters built barricades to block Hung Hom Road and Tak Man Street.²²⁹ Petrol bombs were thrown at the Cross Harbour Tunnel. The Police responded by firing tear gas. After midnight, violent protesters set up a make-shift roadblock in Mong Kok and set it on fire. Violent protesters reverted to familiar tactics, not seen since the District Council Election.

4.213 In the early hours of 1 December 2019, a masked man attacked a man in Mong Kok with a gutter grille. The man, who suffered serious head injuries, had been removing barricades at that time.²³⁰

Sunday 8 December 2019 - Approved Procession Organised by CHRF

4.214 A public procession from Victoria Park in Causeway Bay to Chater Road in Central entitled “World Day of Human Rights Rally 2019” was staged by CHRF with LoNO. The first Police approved CHRF march since August 2019, it drew around 800 000 people²³¹ to the street on 8 December 2019, one day short of when Hong Kong raised the spectre of unrest on 9 June 2019. Police figured that the turnout peaked at 183 000. On its Facebook, CHRF posted promotional materials of the event suggesting that the march was intended to commemorate what happened in the past six months, e.g. the death of the HKUST student, the clashes at PolyU, the Yuen Long Incident and the Prince Edward Station Incident.

4.215 The morning of 8 December 2019 saw the first time the Police seized a semi-automatic pistol from a flat in North Point, suspected to be intended for creating chaos during the procession to be held in the afternoon.²³² Besides the gun, daggers, knives and five ammunition magazines (three of them loaded) and 105 bullets were also seized. 11 people were arrested.

4.216 The procession on 8 December 2019 starting from Causeway Bay was largely peaceful.²³³ Before the march, protesters were standing off with the Police on Percival Street, when some people reportedly challenged police officers with insults, demanding that the crowd be allowed to pass. The head of the march left Victoria Park at 15:15, with a giant banner which read “Justice against police brutality, defend our rights”. Participants were also seen waving British flags. Tension started to build up at around 16:30 in Central, where some violent protesters had set up barricades at Des Voeux Road Central, engaging in a standoff with the Police that continued into the evening. An SCMV and an armoured vehicle arrived at the scene on standby. Causeway Bay streets were still swamped by people waiting to start off even after the head of the march had reached the designated destination at about 16:45.²³⁴

4.217 At night, some violent protesters vandalised shops deemed to be pro-Government, and sprayed slogans outside the Bank of China Tower in Central.²³⁵ Others spray-painted the exterior walls of the High Court, hurled petrol bombs at the entrance of the High Court and Court of Final Appeal. It was the first time the Judiciary became a target in the protests since June 2019.

4.218 By 20:00, most of the protesters had left and the traffic returned to normal.²³⁶ The large turnout on 8 December 2019 suggested that the POEs arising from the Fugitive Offenders Bill had not lost momentum, even after six months.

Saturday 14 December 2019 – The Police Foiled a Bomb Plot in Tuen Mun

4.219 The Police had foiled a second bomb plot in a week and three were arrested in Tuen Mun allegedly testing explosive devices and chemicals. The Police view was that the plan could have been to detonate explosives at a protest rally.²³⁷ Protective gear, shields, bulletproof vests and gas masks were also taken at the scene.²³⁸ Earlier in the week, on 9 December 2019, two home-made devices containing ten kilograms of high explosives were found at Wah Yan College, Hong Kong.²³⁹

Sunday 15 December 2019 – “Shopping with You”

4.220 With the Christmas season around the corner, there were posts from 11 December 2019 appealing to netizens to participate in “Shopping with you”, a mode of ‘soft’ protest at shopping arcades. On 15 December 2019, protesters assembled in various shopping malls for “Shopping with you”.

4.221 Protesters staged citywide protests in seven shopping malls on 15 December 2019.²⁴⁰ The protest in New Town Plaza in Sha Tin turned violent when black-clad protesters smashed the glass panels of the atrium, spray-painted slogans on the floor and confronted people with apparently different opinions. Early in the afternoon, a woman was spray-painted in the face after trying to stop protesters from spraying graffiti at New Town Plaza.²⁴¹ Later in the afternoon, masked protesters stormed into restaurants operated by the Maxim's Caterers Limited. They sprayed paint on the walls and flipped over tables. Customers were forced to leave as the restaurants were vandalised and closed. The Police then arrived and arrested at least five people at the scene. At around 18:30, a crowd of people surrounded a middle-aged woman whom they accused of taking close-up photos of protesters. They ended up repeatedly smashing her phone on the floor.²⁴² The Police later entered the shopping mall to stop protesters from blocking the entrances.²⁴³ Batons and pepper spray were used, while protesters threw objects at the Police.

4.222 Similar scenes took place at Telford Plaza in Kowloon Bay and Metroplaza in Kwai Fong, where protesters disrupted the operation of restaurants.²⁴⁴ There were also protests in Times Square in Causeway Bay, PopCorn in Tseung Kwan O, Cityplaza in Tai Koo Shing and Harbour City in Tsim Sha Tsui. Most shops closed early amid the chaos.

Tuesday 24 December 2019 – “Shopping with You” on Christmas Eve

4.224 On Christmas Eve, protesters gathered in various major shopping malls in different districts going on a "Shopping with You" protest. They visited restaurants, shops and banks deemed to be pro-Government or not supporting their actions.²⁴⁶ Their tactics ranged from vandalism to causing nuisance and intimidating customers. Unrest spread to the districts. In response to the actions of the protesters, the Police fired tear gas, rubber rounds and pepper spray in multiple locations on Christmas Eve. Netizens have called for protests over Christmas, targeting shopping malls.

rounds of tear gas in response. An SCMV later was deployed to disperse the crowds. Petrol bombs were also thrown at Tsim Sha Tsui Police Station.²⁴⁸ At Harbour City, protesters attacked people they suspected to be undercover officers and threw objects at officers entering the mall.²⁴⁹ In return, the officers used baton to stop the protesters and yelled at them to stop throwing objects.

4.226 In Mong Kok, some violent protesters started a fire at one of the entrances of Mong Kok Station.²⁵⁰ Both Mong Kok and Tsim Sha Tsui Stations were closed before 23:00. Protesters threw objects at police officers, and in response, officers used pepper spray on them.²⁵¹ Petrol bombs were thrown at police vehicles.²⁵² Protesters also targeted an HSBC branch in Mong Kok because it had earlier closed the account of Spark Alliance, a fund-raising platform for protesters.²⁵³ They smashed up glass doors and set up a fire inside the branch. Protesters sprayed the message “don't forget Spark Alliance” on the walls of the building. 21 sets of traffic lights were damaged in Mong Kok.²⁵⁴

4.228 Similar to the night before, protesters took to the street and gathered in shopping malls on Christmas Day. Protesters chanted slogans and disrupted business deemed to be pro-Government in various shopping malls. In response to the disruption, the Police used batons and pepper spray on them in New Town Plaza in Sha Tin, outside Langham Place in Mong Kok and at Telford Plaza in Kowloon Bay.²⁵⁶ The Police charged at a crowd of protesters in Mong Kok firing tear gas and arrested seven protesters as tensions rose for several hours. Near midnight, some protesters set fire in Dundas Street.

4.229 The clashes between protesters and the Police on Christmas Day were similar to the conflicts on Christmas Eve but on a smaller scale.

Tuesday 31 December 2019 – Protests to Mark Four Months since the Prince Edward Station Incident

4.233 On New Year's Eve, protesters gathered at the Prince Edward Station to mark four months since the Prince Edward Station Incident. A group mourned the death of those were allegedly killed, placing flowers at the Prince Edward Station.²⁶⁰ Officers from Mong Kok Police Station nearby came and cleared them. In response to the Police action, people put up more flowers. At around 19:00, the Police ordered the protesters, using pepper spray. Two hours later, at around 21:00, protesters rushed to occupy Nathan Road despite Police warning that they might use rubber rounds and super sock rounds.²⁶¹ The Police later deployed an SCMV on Nathan Road in Mong Kok to clear the crowd, after warning them several times to disperse. Armoured vehicles were also deployed to clear roadblocks set up by protesters on Nathan Road. The disturbance lasted to New Year's Day. In the small hours of 1 January 2020, some violent protesters hurled petrol bombs on Nathan Road in Mong Kok while others occupied the roads in the vicinity of Nathan Road and Shantung Street.²⁶² Tear gas was fired for dispersal.

4.234 On 31 December 2019, the Police fired 23 rounds of tear gas, 15 rubber rounds and one super sock round.²⁶³

Highlights of January 2020

- The frequency of large-scale protests decreased in 2020. On 1 January 2020, the procession organised by CHRF ended in violence with protesters damaging traffic lights, banks, restaurants and other targeted shops en route. Some violent protesters threw petrol bombs, bricks and other hard objects at police officers. The Police used OC Foam, batons, tear gas, rubber rounds and SCMV for dispersal.
- “Lunch with You” continued in various districts.
- On 19 January 2020, the assembly at Chater Garden ended in violence. Two police officers were attacked with wooden sticks. The Police fired tear gas to disperse the rally.

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM
THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.235 The frequency of large-scale protests decreased in 2020, but still, some protests took place to commemorate the Yuen Long Incident, Prince Edward Station Incident and Mong Kok Riot in 2016.

4.236 The first day of 2020 was a continuation of unrest from the preceding year. Procession organised by CHRF on New Year's Day is a norm in recent years in Hong Kong. The number of participants in 2020 was a record. Later in the month, the attention shifted to the outbreak of COVID-19.

Wednesday 1 January 2020 – Procession Followed by Violence

4.237 On the first day of 2020, CHRF organised a public procession from Victoria Park in Causeway Bay to Central. The theme was “Keep our commitment, stand as one! —2020 New Year Rally”. According to the organiser, there were over 1.03 million participants whereas the Police estimated 60 000 at peak. About two hours after the start of the procession at around 14:40, some violent protesters began to damage traffic lights, banks, restaurants and other targeted shops en route.

4.238 CHRF received notice from the Police at 17:30 to end the rally by 18:15. It immediately complied and asked people to leave.²⁶⁴ The demand came after plainclothes officers arrested several people for vandalising the facilities of the bank just before 17:00. They vandalised an HSBC branch at the junction of Hennessy Road and Luard Road in Wan Chai by damaging the facilities therein such as glass door and automated teller machines (ATM).²⁶⁵ After protesters had ignored repeated warnings from the Police, the Police used OC Foam, batons, tear gas, rubber rounds and SCMV for dispersal.²⁶⁶ Some violent protesters damaged the traffic lights in the vicinity of Des Voeux Road Central and Pedder Street in Central at around 18:00.²⁶⁷ On the other hand, thousands of people still stayed in the Causeway Bay area after the CHRF announcement of ending the procession. It was not clear if they were aware of CHRF's announcement. Meanwhile, hundreds of people were still in Victoria Park waiting to start the march when the Police ordered an end. At least three petrol bombs were threw at police officers but they all fell short.²⁶⁸

4.239 Some protesters set fire and spray-painted the lion sculptures of HSBC Headquarters in Central. An outer wall of High Court was also found spray-painted with words of hatred for a named judge.²⁶⁹

2, 6, 16, 17 January 2020 – “Lunch with You”

4.240 “Lunch with You” protests continued in January 2020. Some protesters called a “Lunch with You” rally on 2 January 2020. At about 13:00, about 100 citizens gathered in and around Statue Square in Central. The crowd walked towards Pedder Street and disbanded at about 13:45.²⁷⁰ “Lunch with You” rallies continued in multiple districts.

4.241 On 6 January 2020, in Wan Chai and Causeway Bay, protesters walked along Hennessy Road and Johnston Road. Some people raised banners and shouted slogans common in the protests.²⁷¹

4.242 On 16 January 2020, a “Lunch with You” rally was held in the Tsun Yip Street Playground in Kwun Tong. A crowd of about 100 moved towards How Ming Street, shouting slogans along the way. On the same day, a “Lunch with You/Write with You”est campaign was launched in Statue Square in Central. Dozens of people came and wrote slogans on scrolls.²⁷²

4.243 On 17 January 2020, protesters called a "Lunch with You" rally in Cheung Sha Wan and another in San Po Kong. About 30 people gathered in the parking lot of the Hong Kong Industrial Centre. About 70 protesters shouted "release the righteous" outside the Lai Chi Kok Reception Centre, a prison where arrested protesters were held. In San Po Kong, about 50 citizens gathered, including a number of students in school uniforms. Police officers were on alert but the rally was relatively calm.²⁷³

Sunday 19 January 2020 – Calling for Global Sanctions on Hong Kong Officials

4.244 On 19 January 2020, there was an assembly at Chater Garden calling for global sanctions on Hong Kong officials who undermined human rights. The organisers had sought to obtain a LoNO for a procession, but the Police only permitted a public meeting.²⁷⁴ The assembly began at 15:00. One hour later, participants surrounded police officers and threw water bottles and debris in Des Voeux Road Central in Central. Some protesters also set up barricades with iron bars, bricks, traffic cones, and umbrellas. Some bricks on roads were dug up by the protesters and graffiti was sprayed on a building nearby. The Police decided to curtail the event at around 16:00. A few police officers entered Chater Garden to raise the matter with the organiser at about 16:30 for security reasons. Two of the officers were attacked with wooden sticks and sustained head injuries shortly after the organiser had agreed to call off the rally.²⁷⁵ The Police fired tear gas outside Chater Garden to disperse the rally.²⁷⁶ On that day, the organiser indicated that there were 150 000 attending the assembly, while the Police estimated a peak attendance of 11 680.²⁷⁷

Highlights of February 2020

- Large-scale protests subsided in February 2020 but small-scale protests continued. The “Lunch with You” continued at Central on 3 and 4 February 2020.
- Commemorations of the death of the HKUST and VTC students on 8 and 19 February 2020
- Commemorations of the Yuen Long Incident and the Prince Edward Station Incident continued in February 2020.

4.245 In February 2020, street protests have almost been halted, probably because of COVID-19. While the frequency of large-scale protests had decreased, there were still some protests of small scale in different districts to commemorate some significant incidents occurred during the POEs in 2019.

Monday 3 and Tuesday 4 February 2020 – “Lunch with You”

4.246 On 3 February 2020, more than a hundred people gathered inside the IFC Mall in Central to participate the “Lunch with You” event.²⁷⁸ The protesters were there to "Support Medical Strikes" so as to pressurise the Government to close the borders.

Saturday 8 February 2020 – Commemoration of the Death of the HKUST Student

4.248 In the evening of 8 February 2019, more than 100 citizens gathered at the parking lot of Sheung Tak Estate in Tseung Kwan O, where the body of the HKUST student was found three months ago.²⁸⁰ At 21:00, some protesters started to block the roads with bicycles and other items outside the Sheung Tak shopping mall. Rounds of tear gas were fired and 119 were arrested including five District Councillors.²⁸¹

Wednesday 19 February 2020 – Commemoration of the Death of the female VTC Student

4.249 Some protesters initiated a gathering on the ground floor of the parking lot in Sheung Tak Village, Tseung Kwan O in remembrance of the HKUST student and the female VTC student. About 70 people participated in the event.²⁸²

Friday 21 February 2020 – Commemoration of Yuen Long Incident at YOHO Mall

4.250 To mark seven months of the Yuen Long Incident, a large number of protesters responded to online calls to gather in Yuen Long²⁸³, Causeway Bay Station and Ma On Shan Station. The MTR closed the Yuen Long Station at 17:00. From 19:00, protesters started to gather at the atrium of the Yoho Mall in Yuen Long.²⁸⁴ At about 23:00, some protesters blocked the main road in Yuen Long with plastic boxes and garbage. The Police later arrived to clear the road.²⁸⁵ The commemoration in Causeway Bay Station and Ma On Shan Station were comparatively peaceful.

Saturday 29 February 2020 – Commemoration of Prince Edward Station Incident

4.251 In the evening of 29 February 2020, protesters gathered at the Prince Edward Station to mark six months of the Prince Edward Station Incident. It turned out to be the biggest outbreak of violence since the start of COVID-19.²⁸⁶

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM
THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.252 In the evening, hundreds gathered at Exit A of the Prince Edward Station, near Mong Kok Police Station. The Police said in a press release that protesters shone laser pointers, built barricades and set fires on roads at around 18:00 outside the police station.²⁸⁷ The protesters also threw petrol bombs at the junction of Nathan Road and Argyle Street at 20:30. Violent protesters occupied the roads by makeshift barricades in the Mong Kok area near Prince Edward Station. They threw petrol bombs and bricks at police officers. The Police responded by firing rounds of tear gas. It has been over three weeks since the Police last deployed tear gas.

Highlights of March 2020

- Less violence and small-scale protests were noted in March 2020. Commemorations of the death of the HKUST student, the Yuen Long Incident and the Prince Edward Station Incident were held.

CHAPTER 4 • AN OVERVIEW OF THE PUBLIC ORDER EVENTS ARISING FROM
THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS BILL SINCE JUNE 2019

4.255 In March 2020, the city's attention shifted to COVID-19. There were only a few activities in commemoration of several significant incidents.

Sunday 8 March 2020 - To Commemorate the Death of the HKUST Student

4.256 To mark four months since the death of the HKUST student, some protesters gathered to mourn for him in the Kwun Tong Promenade and the parking lot at Sheung Tak Estate in Tseung Kwan O, where his body was discovered. At about 20:00, several hundred people went to the carpark to mourn his death and observed a minute of silence. At 20:20, the Police gave warning that the assembly was unauthorised, and asked the protesters and journalists to leave. The Police blocked a pedestrian road and checked identity cards and belongings of nearly 300 people.²⁹⁰ A total of 63 persons were arrested that night.

Saturday 21 March 2020 - Commemoration of the Yuen Long Incident

4.257 To mark eight months since the Yuen Long Incident, some protesters gathered in Yuen Long at night. They blocked roads and threw petrol bombs in Citistore on Tai Tong Road. In response, police officers fired multiple rounds of tear gas, rubber rounds and used pepper spray for dispersal.²⁹¹ 61 people were arrested, including the Chairman of Yuen Long District Council.²⁹² Following the arrest of the Chairman of Yuen Long District Council, a joint statement of 17 District Council Chairmen, Vice-Chairmen and representatives criticised the Police for abuse of the power of arrest.²⁹³

Tuesday 31 March 2020 - Commemoration of Prince Edward Station Incident

4.258 To mark seven months since the Prince Edward Station Incident, protesters brought flowers and gathered at the Prince Edward Station from 19:00.

4.259 Later in the same evening, some protesters blocked the roads in the vicinity. Petrol bombs were thrown at the nearby Police Sports and Recreation Club and Mong Kok East Station. Police officers used pepper spray and batons to disperse the protesters.²⁹⁴ At least ten protesters were intercepted and searched²⁹⁵, and four were arrested that night.²⁹⁶

IPCC Observations

4.260 The IPCC notes that the protests since June 2019 have been attended by a degree and scale of violence unprecedented in recent history. The violence has shown some signs of waning from January 2020 onwards and has been further attenuated by the epidemic now afflicting our community. But it is possible that despite the damage that has been wrought by the violence and the potential consequences that might bring to Hong Kong's economy, it might once again re-ignite as the epidemic passes. That is a matter for the future. Whilst no one can predict the future, we can at least learn lessons from the past.

4.261 Although the triggering event was the Fugitive Offenders Bill, the protests continued even after the Government announced on 15 June 2019 that it would suspend the Bill. On multiple occasions between June and August 2019, the Chief Executive re-affirmed that the Bill was dead and there was no plan to revive it. On 4 September 2019, the Government finally announced the full withdrawal of the Bill. Yet, the protests persisted, and even escalated in violence until December 2019 when signs of decline began to surface.

4.262 This Study revealed that the protests were accompanied by a scale and depth of lawlessness and violence not seen in Hong Kong since the riots of 1967. The lawlessness and violence varied from blocking roads, throwing bricks, attacking Police cordons with umbrellas (some with sharpened tips), to hurling petrol bombs and setting fire on streets and to public and private property or vandalising banks, shops and MTR stations. From early August 2019 onwards, petrol bombs were used at almost every protest, hurled at police officers, and public and private property.

4.263 In November 2019, the two universities occupied became the factories for manufacturing petrol bombs for use in the clashes with the Police outside the campus. Sling shots were seen to be deployed from July 2019 onwards. And as time went on, assorted potentially lethal weapons were seen being used in the streets against the Police, traffic network, public and private property.

4.264 The damage to public and private property was significant. The full extent of the damage has not been fully studied but to the extent the IPCC can gather, a list appears at Annex 1 to this Chapter.

4.265 In the past months there have been cases, where the Police have discovered bomb making materials and instruments enabling remote detonation. Guns and live ammunition were also found and persons involved arrested. If these weapons had been deployed, the consequences would be unimaginable. The Commissioner has warned that Hong Kong may be heading into an era of terrorism.

4.266 While the protests have been characterised by the media and scholars to be leaderless (無大台), there were visible signs of various forms of organisation at every violent protest, such as co-ordinated protest tactics, the availability of large amounts of petrol bombs and gas masks of similar designs and large numbers of lasers. There has been great inventiveness in the use of the internet, a feature of the protests which will be dealt with below. For example, the internet was used in convening protests and disseminating real-time information on police mobilisation, and teaching protesters in the fabrication and use of weapons. The inventiveness in use of the internet also extended to rapid assembly of information for doxxing police officers and their families and the fashioning of large amounts of hate messages and propaganda against the

Police. The discovery of rifles and hand guns and substantial amounts of live ammunition in recent months, as well as large amounts of materials for bomb making suggest some form of organisation behind these activities.

4.267 On 8 January 2020, the S for S in response to questions raised by Legislative Councillors said that some protesters “had received training”.²⁹⁷ He elaborated that, “It seems that in every operation or incident, they will plan in advance with a deliberate plot in a syndicated manner. In terms of resources and mobilisation, we don’t believe that a handful of unorganised rioters could orchestrate such events.”

4.268 At various times, some news articles reported that Mainland officials had mentioned about foreign influences behind the protests.²⁹⁸ In the telephone survey of members of the public conducted by the Centre for Communication and Public Opinion Survey of CUHK, 9.4% to 11.6% of respondents thought foreign forces should be responsible for the escalation of violence in the protests. More details are given in Chapter 15: Perceptions of Police Officers, Protesters and General Public.

4.269 It is not the purpose of this Study and the IPCC has no power to investigate into whether there was any organisation behind the protests or whether there were foreign influences. The possible existence of organisation or foreign influences behind the protests is a dimension of law enforcement. If organisation or foreign influences does indeed exist, then that adds to the difficulty of law enforcement. That is a matter for the Commissioner to take into account in the maintenance of law and order.

The Essential Features of the Protests

4.270 The essential features of the protests in the past months have been:

- (1) Continual metamorphosis of the demands of the protesters from initially asking for withdrawal of the Fugitive Offenders Bill to investigation of police brutality by an independent commission of inquiry and calls for universal suffrage together with other demands, including a full amnesty for all persons arrested or involved in the protests and even disbandment of the Police Force;

- (2) The use of the internet in spreading hatred against the Police, resulting in threats, intimidations and attacks on individual police officers whether in or out of duty and their families. In the most serious cases, an on duty officer was slashed in his neck and another off duty officer set on fire. There were many other instances where individual police officers who had fallen behind their teams were ferociously attacked by mobsters with potentially lethal weapons; and
- (3) Escalation of the violence, including blocking of streets, destruction of public and private property, disabling of major transport infrastructure, vigilantism against persons of different opinions, resulting in a person being killed by a brick hurled at him, and the setting on fire of another person.

The Ascent of Technology

4.271 Possibly the most important feature of the protests is the use of technology. The protests have been characterised by the media and scholars to be leaderless but is evident that the internet social media have played a key role in driving the protests forward. Practically instant and widespread communications were effected through social media, including Facebook, Instagram, WhatsApp, LIHKG and Telegram.

4.272 The internet was clearly the power and the driving force for continuing and escalating protests. It mobilises protesters to take part in the protests and gives momentum to the protests by providing a platform for the dissemination of propaganda materials, messages of hatred against the Police and other unsupported claims to launch rallies, perpetrate acts of violence, and doxxing police officers and their families. All protests to date have been called through the internet. And to facilitate the protesters, an App has since August 2019 appeared showing the real-time dispositions of the Police. This is an App updated by all persons watching the movements of the Police. In effect, it is a battlefield App giving information of enemy movements. The ability to track the movements of the Police, was no doubt a factor emboldening protestors in using violence, as their tactics could be adjusted by the information posted on the App.

4.273 The internet was not only an important convening force but effectively the medium by which propaganda²⁹⁹ against the Police was created and swiftly disseminated. The propaganda to date has been a continuing message of hatred against the Police for what the internet messages termed “police brutality” against “comrades in protest”. It was easy for such propaganda to gain credibility among protesters as they came face-to-face with law enforcement action by the Police or when their attacks of police officers and police stations were repulsed by police action, even if the force used was less than lethal. This message of hatred was not only a means for convening more protests but also a platform for inciting escalating violence against police stations, police officers and police quarters.

4.274 There have been a number of tragic deaths which the propaganda on the internet have attributed to the Police, with no more basis than a mere allegation. In June 2019, a protester fell from a scaffolding at Pacific Place, Admiralty. In the same month, two female committed suicide leaving notes with message to carry on the protest. The Prince Edward Station Incident spawned bare allegations of killings by the Police and another girl whose dead body found in the sea was alleged to have been “suicided” by the Police, again with no more basis than a mere allegation. In November 2019, a young university student fell to his death from height. Despite the CCTV footage released by LINK to the public showing that no policeman was on the floor from which this unfortunate student most probably fell, the death was nonetheless used for hate messages on the internet against the Police.

²⁹⁹ The dictionary definition of “Propaganda” is “information, especially of a biased or misleading nature, used to promote a political cause or point of view”.

4.275 In addition, the internet was used as a platform for teaching protesters on the making of petrol bombs, along with inciting more violent protests. Annex 3 to this Chapter provides a summary of the convening and propaganda powers of the internet.

4.276 In the chapters relating to specific incidents (Chapters 7 to 12), the IPCC have made various observations and recommendations on timely Police response to incidents which would assist the Police to spread their explanations. The use of the internet requires careful study on how future strategies for policing public order should be fashioned. The IPCC recommends that the Commissioner to review the capacity of the Police to utilise the power and impact of the internet in support the Police in the maintenance of law and order for the HKSAR.

The Continuing Message of Police Brutality

4.277 This Overview reveals that the protests continue to be driven by the message of police brutality in social media and elsewhere. It must be recognised that civilized society is not based on the use or threat of force, but in the free and peaceful exchange of ideas. The use of force by anyone is illegal, save in exceptional circumstances. These exceptional circumstances fall into two essential classes:

- (a) Law enforcement, where the law allows the use of force under legally defined circumstances by officers empowered to enforce the law, where the law has been broken or where there is reasonable belief that the law is about to be broken; and
- (b) Self-defence of person or property or defence of the person or property of another, when faced with unlawful use of force.

4.278 In the past months of violent protests, roads were blocked, transport infrastructure seriously affected, public and private property destroyed, and police officers and private citizens attacked. Protesters used sling shots and arrows, threw petrol bombs, and deploy a variety of weapons. These are illegal acts, which could have fatal consequences.

4.279 This Overview reveals that in the face of these illegal and potentially lethal acts, the Police has had to enforce the law and to protect themselves against harm. Over 590 police officers have been injured. When attacked with potentially lethal consequences, the Police has, except in 12 instances, deployed less than lethal force. In those 12 instances, 19 live rounds were deployed, three persons were injured and they have now been discharged from hospital. As has been seen in Chapter 6: Police Use of Force in Public Order Policing, the Police has strict guidelines governing the use of weapons and an investigation procedure reporting up to the level of the Director of Operations where live rounds were deployed.

4.280 With a view to complying with the law, the Police has in place policies, procedures and training for the use of force in law enforcement. Whilst these are extensive, there is obvious room for improvement and this Study has made a set of recommendations for improvement of these guidelines in Chapter 6. As an institution the Police has a large collection of guidelines for the use of force and a system of management review every time force is used. This Study reveals that the Police use of force in the past months have been in reaction to the violence directed against them and in execution of their duties under the PFO and the POO, where they would need to disperse crowds or make arrests of persons who have offended the law.

The Complaints System

4.281 However, this cannot discount or excuse the possibility of individual officers overstepping the law and insufficient supervision in specific cases. The complaints system is designed to deal with these situations.

4.282 Chapter 5: Synopsis of Complaints deals with the complaints received up to end of February 2020 and provide information as to how they will be dealt with. The IPCC notes that 20.5% of the RCs came from reporters.³⁰⁰ The IPCC fully appreciates the work of reporters on the ground as it is their duty to get the best news coverage possible. However, it must be balanced with the safety of the reporters themselves, the protesters and the police officers, and at the same time not to hinder the frontline police officers in action. This Report is intended to assist the IPCC in monitoring and reviewing the investigation of all RCs lodged with CAPO.

The Commissioner's Supervisory Powers

4.283 As to cases where no complaints have been made, the events in the past months, has been the most widely and deeply photographed and video-recorded events in history of Hong Kong to date, where in the footage, if there is evidence of overstepping the mark as to application of force, the IPCC would expect the Commissioner to step in and put his house in order.

³⁰⁰ Chart 5-3 in Chapter 5 refers.
